

RALPH MCGILL

Is Integrity Indeed So Rare?

In a sense, the most absorbing commentary on the death of Harold L. Ickes is the emphasis placed on his always-obvious integrity.

Has integrity become so rare that when a possessor of it passes from life, we must all wonder at that bright and shining quality?

Certainly Harold Ickes had it. He put the nation first. The proposed steal of the tidelands oil, for all its window dressing, was to him as much a steal from the vital oil reserves of the nation as was that at Teapot Dome.

He said so.

When Warren G. Harding was being nominated, Harold Ickes' voice was heard shouting "No!" until the deed was done. He knew.

Voice Raised

He was first attracted to politics by Teddy Roosevelt's Bull Moose party. After the first World War he came back to politics as a supporter of Hiram Johnson of California, nominated for the presidency. In that fight he helped give the nation the great gifts of Woodrow Wilson. He worked with Republicans, Bull Moosers, Independent Republicans and Democrats, La Follette Progressives, and Roosevelt's New Deal.

Well back in the '20's he was raising his voice against the injustices of the stock market manipulators which led finally to the present SEC. He helped expose the frauds of Samuel Insull, the Chicago utilities thief. He worked with Hale (Big Bill) Thompson, Chicago's most corrupt mayor of the twenties. He was an established fighter for honesty in government long before Franklin D. Roosevelt picked him up in 1933. He didn't agree with all FDR did, but he believed Roosevelt wanted to protect the nation's resources, its oil, its ores, its grazing lands, and its forests from predatory interests which wanted to exploit them without control. He was made Secretary of the Interior and it is worth noting, he held that position until he resigned from President Truman's cabinet because he was not in favor of the nomination of an oil man whom Ickes believed to be corrupt—because that man had, Ickes said, asked to make an oil deal which was wrong so that the party could obtain a contribution of $300,000. There are men who could tell stories of how they turned a telephone call from Ickes who would ask, "How about that causeway or that irrigation project out your way? It doesn't smell good. Don't give me details. Just say yes or no." When the underground railway tunnel was built in Chicago, Frank Knox agreed to it, only, "if Ickes could keep an eye on the money."

He kept the Nazis from getting the helium gas that almost everyone in the nation wanted them to have. That was in 1937. Ickes refused because he didn't trust Hitler and believed (correctly as it turned out), that Hitler would use it for military purposes. It ended the Nazi dirigible development.

Picturesque Phrases

He was famous for puncturing stuffed shirts and letting the air out of demagogues with original, picturesque phrases:

When Hugh Johnson, of NRA, fell out with him and attacked him, Ickes said, "Hugh is suffering from mental saddle sores." Huey Long referred to him as a "chinch bug from Chicago." Back came Ickes: "The trouble with Senator Long is he is suffering from halitosis of the intellect. That's presuming, of course, that Emperor Long has an intellect." His reference to Wendell Willkie as a "simple, barefoot Wall Street lawyer" hurt that candidate's chances in that it collapsed the effort to picture Willkie as an Indiana country boy.

He wounded Dewey by saying, in 1944, "I see where Mr. Dewey has thrown in his diaper."

Despite his furious resignation from the Truman cabinet, he supported Truman against Dewey, saying Dewey had "a tinkertoy approach to foreign affairs and was a candidate in snafers."

Two of his palbearers were Henry Wallace and Sen. Robert Taft—both of whom could learn from his life.

The two represent the variety of the man's life: the spread of his friendships. He was a fighter always, and did not win all of his battles. He took plenty of lumps. But, he never flinched down for the count, and he never failed to answer the bell.

What were the interests of this belligerent man?

Gardening. He liked nature and flowers. One of his greatest achievements, and the one which pleased him most, was that he was the first gardener in this country to patent a dahlia.

In death they talk of his integrity. American life cries for that quality. The moral is plain.

Byrnes Talk Here Expected To Ask Independent South

By M. L. ST. JOHN

South Carolina's Gov. James Byrnes is expected to intensify his call for a "politically independent" South when he addresses the Georgia Legislature at noon Wednesday.

The occasion is expected to be a "states' rights" pep meeting, since Byrnes is speaking in the home state of Governor Talmadge, his colleague in a Southern battle against policies of the National Democratic Party.

The Georgia Legislature already has passed a bill morally freeing the Georgia Democratic electors from supporting the National Democratic Party's presidential nominee.

On his arrival here Tuesday night, Byrnes refused to comment on President Truman's entry in the New Hampshire presidential primary against Sen. Estes Kefauver. In previous interviews, Byrnes has expressed the belief that Truman will not be a candidate for renomination, and said that the South is fighting the principles of the National Democratic Party rather than an individual. When he left his name in the New Hampshire primary, the President didn't answer the question as to whether he will be a candidate for the nomination at the Democratic national convention.

LEAD DIXIE MOVE
Governors Talmadge and Byrnes and Virginia Sen. Harry Byrd are spearheading the Southern move toward either obtaining a "suitable" presidential nominee and platform from the Democratic Party or else withholding electoral votes and trying to throw the election of the President into Congress.

Governor Byrnes recently addressed the Virginia Legislature. When newsmen questioned him on the next step in the Southern movement, he laughed and said he didn't wish to discuss politics prior to his speech.

Governor and Mrs. Byrnes and a South Carolina party including Senate President Pro Tem Edgar Brown flew from Columbia to Marietta. They were guests of Governor and Mrs. Talmadge at the executive mansion Tuesday.

Hurdles Seen For County Sale of Tags

Legislation which would permit the sale of automobile license tags in each of Georgia's 159 counties went to a Senate subcommittee after a public hearing Tuesday as Capitol observers reported a ground swell of opposition to the bill.

Rep. W. L. Abney of Walker County, author of the bill, known as House Bill 254, which passed the House Jan. 29 by a 103 to 40 vote, said he does not know when the subcommittee will report back to the Senate motor vehicle committee with its recommendation.

He added, however, it is his understanding it may be withdrawn Wednesday for a second reading in the Senate, and then be recommitted to the committee.

Capital observers speculated on opposition developing to the bill, which proponents say would realize a revenue of $1,050,000 in Fulton County alone. Opponents indicated they oppose passage of the bill because it would eliminate at least 100 jobs, now paying an average of $2,000 a year, which often are used as political rewards.

These jobs include stenographic.

House Expected to Clear Toll Highway Bill Today

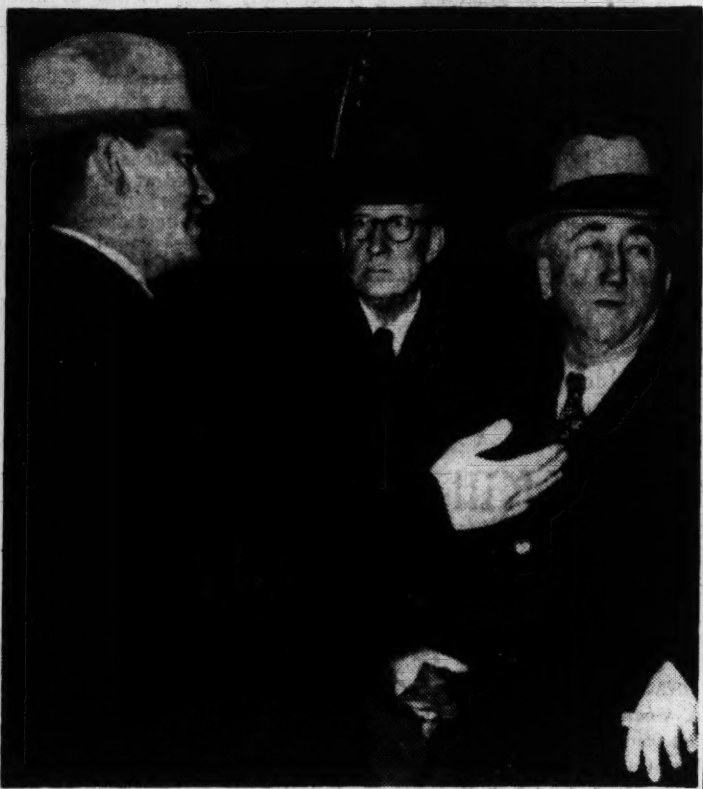

Final legislative approval of Governor Talmadge's toll road proposal was expected in the Georgia House of Representatives Wednesday after Senate administration leaders blocked an attempt to prevent use of state tax funds for retiring the toll road's bonds.

House Floor Leader Frank Twitty of Mitchell County would accept minor Senate changes and remove the necessity of sending the bill to a conference committee.

In Tuesday's Senate scrap over the proposed toll road amendment, Sen. Harold Willingham of Marietta said the state may some day take over the toll road bonds.

But Sen. Guy Connell of Valdosta was quick to tell the Senate that the Marietta was expressing a personal opinion. "Georgia has never been the purpose to use tax money to pay for the toll road," he said.

The proposed amendment which would prohibit any Legislature from appropriating funds to pay

Bill Easing Truck Limits Is Killed in Georgia House

By a resounding vote of 123 to 55, the Georgia House of Representatives Tuesday defeated a bill to raise truck weight and length limits, following a battle between railroad and truck groups.

A similar provision caused defeat of the entire Uniform Traffic Code in the House a year ago.

Opponents of the bill declared the taxpayers shouldn't have to build roads for big trucks to destroy. Proponents said Georgia's agricultural progress is dependent upon trucks, which serve areas where railroads won't operate.

The bill, as amended, would have hiked maximum weights from 56,000 to 59,500 pounds and increased maximum lengths from 45 to 48 feet.

Rep. Herschel Lovett of Laurens County said trucks should travel over toll roads, or pay a toll for traveling over the free Georgia highway system because they are commercial enterprises.

On the other hand, Rep. John Greer of Lanier County observed that "all railroads would be in bankruptcy today" had they not called upon the taxpayers for subsidies and loans during depression years.

Rep. Frank Twitty of Mitchell County said it is illogical to claim that trucks, which comprise only

Drafting Delays Bill To Prune 11 From City Council

Clerical difficulties in drawing a bill to reduce Atlanta's wards from nine to eight and to cut city council's membership from 27 to 16 are delaying the bill's presentation, State Sen. G. Everett Millican said Tuesday night.

The four members of the Fulton delegation said the bill would be introduced this week and all said positively they "will not recede from" their position, despite opposition from the Atlanta City Council.

Companion bills introduced by Millican Monday would reduce Fulton County Commission membership from five to three and create a joint seven-man board of tax assessors for both governments.

Bill Would Hike Hartsfield's Pay

State Sen. G. Everett Millican said Tuesday night he proposes to introduce a bill in the Legislature to increase the salary of Atlanta's mayor to $16,000 a year.

Millican said the rest of the members of the Fulton legislative delegation have agreed to the bill.

Passage would mean a $2,500 a year salary boost for Mayor Hartsfield who now draws $13,500. Fulton County Manager A. E. Fuller draws $17,500 as the highest paid local government official in Metropolitan Atlanta.

Attlee Asks Censure of Churchill

Raps U. S. Vows Before Commons

LONDON, Feb. 5.—(UP)—Opposition leader Clement Attlee and his top Labor Party officials introduced a motion of censure Tuesday night against Prime Minister Winston Churchill's conduct on his recent trip to the United States.

The labor motion was introduced in the House of Commons near the end of the first day of a two-day foreign policy debate whose main topic was Churchill's speech to the U. S. Congress.

It came after Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden declared that President Truman, Secretary of State Acheson, General Bradley and "all the leading Americans" are opposed to carrying the Korean war to the Chinese mainland.

SUSPICIONS VOICED
Attlee took the floor after Eden had clashed with Labor members who voiced suspicions of American intentions in the Far East.

The Laborites, in their motion, were careful to challenge only Churchill's conduct during the trip and not his government's foreign policy.

After the Laborites move Wednesday that the House of Commons adopt the motion of censure, the prime minister is expected to indicate whether he regards the motion as one of "no confidence" in his government. Observers gave the Laborites little chance to push such a motion through.

SEES COMMITMENTS
The former Labor prime minister attacked Churchill for his statements when he was in the United States, particularly in his congressional speech.

He said that Churchill's remarks had "added to the suspicion that we were being committed more deeply than on the surface."

"There are undoubtedly people in America who want drastic action under General MacArthur," Attlee believed in limiting this war. "America today who would like to have a showdown with the Communists."

"I think it is most important to do everything to support the people who want an armistice and who believe in limiting this war," Churchill had told the U. S. Congress that a breach of a Korean truce by the Communists would bring "prompt, resolute and effective" action, but he later de-

Japan Treaty, 3 Pacts Pass Senate Body

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The Senate foreign relations committee unanimously approved Tuesday the peace treaty with Japan and the three associated pacts that will raise a democratic defensive alliance in the Pacific.

The four pacts were recommended 13 to 0, intact and without qualification, to the Senate itself for its ratification. This, a process that by the Constitution requires a two-thirds vote, may not come for two or three weeks.

When it does the favoring majority probably will be better than 10 to one and there may be no dissent at all.

This clear prospect was raised by the action of the committee in proposing that the Senate, in its resolution of ratification, repudiate on behalf of the United States that part of the Yalta agreement of 1945 by which South Sakhalin, the Kurile Islands, and other island positions off Japan were to be handed over to the Soviet Union.

The committee chairman, Sen. Connally, (Dem., Texas), told reporters he would ask the Senate Democratic leaders to give a high place on the calendar of business for the main treaty, that making peace with Japan, and for the three security pacts, which bind in mutual defense the United States and Australia-New Zealand, the United States and the Philippine Republic.

Political Conference At High Level Urged By Foe After Truce

Kefauver Challenged By Truman

By W. H. LAWRENCE

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—President Truman reconsidered Tuesday and agreed to leave his name on the ballot in New Hampshire's Democratic presidential preference primary on March 11, where he will be opposed by Senator Kefauver of Tennessee.

Mr. Truman's surprise decision, in direct contradiction to his press conference announcement last Thursday that he would withdraw from the New Hampshire contest, was made public at the White House Tuesday morning.

NOT RACE GUARANTEE
Both the White House and Frank McKinney, Democratic national chairman who had urged the President to stay in the race, emphasized that Mr. Truman's announcement Tuesday did not necessarily mean that he was a candidate for re-election. Similarly, when Mr. Truman announced last week his intention of withdrawing his name from the New Hampshire primary, he said that action would not preclude him from later becoming a candidate because it wouldn't be necessary for him to run in any primaries to win renomination from his party if he desired it.

The New Hampshire vote is the first presidential primary of the 1952 campaign, and Mr. Truman's decision to leave his name on the ballot makes the contest of vital importance to Democrats as well as Republicans. The stakes are very high for both Mr. Truman and Senator Kefauver on the Democratic side, and for General Eisenhower, Senator Taft of Ohio, and Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor, on the Republican ticket.

RUNS DEFEAT RISK
The President, in making a belated decision to run against Senator Kefauver in New Hampshire, runs the potential risk of a defeat, or of being closely pressed in the popular vote, and neither outcome would be beneficial to his political fortunes if he is to be a candidate for re-election. On the other hand, if Mr. Truman can administer a decisive beating to Senator Kefauver, it would set back the Tennesseean's presidential campaign which he has announced he intends to carry forward even if Mr. Truman announces that he wants another term.

New Weapons Spotlight Rise in Military Costs

By HAROLD B. HINTON

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Complicated new defense weapons and instruments of war were displayed by defense officials before members of the Senate Tuesday as evidence of the tremendous rise in military costs.

The most striking exhibit before an appropriations subcommittee was the first public display of the parts making up the new K-1 radar-controlled weapon costing $250,000 a unit.

It replaces the Norden Bombsight of World War II which cost only $8,000. The K-1 assembled weighs one ton, and many of its parts appear larger than the complete Norden Bombsight that weighed 50 pounds and was about the size of a bowling ball.

The senators also were shown a 40-millimeter anti-aircraft gun used in World War II that cost $10,000. To do the same job now, Assistant Secretary Karl Bendetsen testified, the "Skysweeper" gun has been developed. This is a radar-controlled weapon costing $275,000.

The exhibit as a whole led Senator O'Mahoney, subcommittee chairman, to observe that modern science is increasing fighting costs almost to a point where war cannot be waged by "those who wish to have an economy based on individual enterprise and freedom."

The display was part of a series of hearings O'Mahoney called to probe military end-items for delivery to the countries concerned.

UN Shelves Korea Issue Until Truce

By THOMAS J. HAMILTON

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

PARIS, Feb. 5.—The United Nations General Assembly ended its 1951 session Tuesday afternoon with another clash between the United States and the Soviet Union over the decision not to take up a permanent settlement of Korea now.

As its final action the assembly voted overwhelmingly to hold a special session at the headquarters in New York after an armistice is reached, or if "other developments" make it desirable to consider the Korean question.

The vote was 51 to 5, with the Soviet bloc standing alone, Chile and Yemen abstaining, and Peru and South Africa absent. However, on a paragraph-by-paragraph vote the Soviet bloc abstained on the section of the resolution requesting the assembly's negotiating committee for extra-budgetary funds to negotiate with member nations regarding their contributions to the United Nations Korean Reconstruction Agency.

Belief that the assembly should take up the agency's program for the relief and reconstruction of Korea without delay was responsible for Chile's abstention.

478 Million Diverted To Economic Aid

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—President Truman reported to Congress Tuesday that he had authorized the diversion of $478,160,000 of military aid funds under the mutual security program to provide economic aid to Great Britain, France, Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia.

In addition to the recent grant of $300,000,000 in economic aid to Britain, the President said he had authorized the use of military aid funds to provide further economic aid in the amount of $100,000,000 to France, $10,000,000 to Greece, $25,000,000 to Turkey and $43,000,000 to Yugoslavia.

The President announced his action in letters to the chairmen of the congressional committees on foreign policy, appropriations and the armed services soon after W. Averell Harriman, mutual security director, left for Paris.

In reporting on the transfers, Mr. Truman said the funds diverted would "contribute more to military strength in Europe than if the same funds were used to procure military end-items for delivery to the countries concerned."

2d Party in Germany Demands Saar Voice

Free Democrats Are Echoing Adenauer Plea for Rights

By DREW MIDDLETON

New York Times News Service, Special to The Atlanta Constitution

BONN, Feb. 5.—The Free Democratic Party, the second largest group in the government coalition, Tuesday joined the growing bloc of German "intransigents" when it declared in its press service that the Federal Republic can agree to a defense contribution only if Germany receives equal rights in Europe.

The party statement also expressed fear that the Allies are trying to make "permanent" one-half of the occupation statute and are trying to maintain their role as "the re-educators of the German nation."

This development, a result of German indignation over the Saar and NATO, occurred while Chancellor Adenauer was meeting with the Allied high commissioners to negotiate further on contractual agreement. Progress toward completion of this agreement was, according to a communiqué, the only matter discussed.

ADENAUER QUIZZED

It is reported by reliable sources, however, that Adenauer was quizzed by the high commissioners on his remarks Monday before a meeting of the deputies of the Christian Democratic Union of which he is leader.

According to deputies present at the meeting, Adenauer declared that he would not initial either a European defense treaty or a contractual agreement until Germany's demands on the settlement of the Saar and representation in the NATO are satisfied.

Like many statesmen before him, the first chancellor of the Federal Republic now is regretting that he spoke so freely. The foreign office (Adenauer is also foreign minister) gave out a communiqué denying the chancellor said what he was reported to have said.

REPORTED CORRECTLY

However, the deputies who reported the chancellor's remarks in the first instance maintained Tuesday these remarks had been reported correctly.

What Adenauer overlooked, one German official said, was the certainty that his remarks would be reported to the foreign press and sent to such sensitive centers as Paris. "The chancellor thought he was talking for private party consumption," the source added.

Unfortunately for Adenauer, a reporter of his own Christian Democratic Union press service attended the meeting and while various deputies were reporting what the chancellor had said to friends in the foreign and German press this reporter's story of the chancellor's speech, agreeing with the deputies' report, was circulated by his news service.

EDITORS CRITICIZED

The editors of the news service were sharply criticized by the chancellor today, so sharply that after assuring newspaper friends that their story was accurate they offered to call a press conference at which their reporter by exhibiting his notes would publicly affirm the accuracy of his reporting. But pressure from the chancellery prevented this.

The government line as it is expressed officially and unofficially continues to follow the course charted by Adenauer's remarks. A government spokesman Tuesday reported that the cabinet will not take the initiative on the Saar but will wait for France to move.

LOOPHOLE CITED

In making public a record of the subcommittee's hearings, McCarran said "one of the big loopholes" for the traffic was established by the Justice department, "which is charged with enforcement of the act."

The senator said that in a formal agreement with the department, the Four Continent Book Corp. of New York, registered agent of the Book Combine of the Soviet Union, is not required to label Communist propaganda when it is addressed to individuals and institutions, including colleges and universities.

The subcommittee, composed of McCarran and Senators O'Connor (Dem., M.D.) and Ferguson (Rep., Mich.), reported the Four Continent Book Corp. buys between $35,000 and $40,000 worth of books, phonograph records and other material from the Soviet Book Combine each year.

Steel Claims Union Padded Output Report

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—A steel industry economist Tuesday accused the CIO United Steelworkers of exaggerating workers' output to make a better case for its wage demands.

In a second day before a wage stabilization hearing, Economist Jules Backman said "exaggerated increases in long-term and short-term gains in productivity have been presented by the union."

"Historically—and since 1939—output per man-hour in the steel industry has risen less than three per cent per year," he added.

He said the union claimed a rise in output per man of from 4 to 5 per cent a year. But Dr. Backman contended this was accomplished by picking an off year of low productivity as a base.

Actually, he argued, since 1939 "average hourly earnings of steel workers have risen by 123.6 per cent while the rise in output per man is estimated at only about 34 per cent."

The steel workers are demanding an 18½-cent-an-hour wage increase, a minimum guaranteed annual wage of about $3,000 and a score of other contract benefits. Wages now average $1.92 to $1.97 an hour.

The six-man stabilization panel is trying to find a compromise that will avert a strike of 600,000 steel workers, tentatively set for February 23.

UMT Bill Polished for House Test

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The House armed services committee agreed Tuesday on the main points of a bill under which all qualified 18-year-old youths would be called up for six months of universal military training.

The committee will meet Wednesday to put finishing touches on the bill and report it formally to the House. Members said not more than a handful of votes will be cast against it.

Except for provisions previously agreed to by Congress, the committee left open the question of how and when UMT can be started. Defense leaders have said they hope to crank it up on a small scale next summer or fall.

The committee, however, approved an amendment by Chairman Vinson (Dem., Ga.) to block the Defense department's announced plans to start the system on a strictly voluntary basis. Military leaders have proposed taking only those volunteers who agreed to be called to active military duty for 18 months immediately upon completion of training. This would have brought their overall term of service in line with draftees who serve 24 months.

Under the Vinson amendment, all trainees would be put into the reserves for 7½ years immediately upon completion of training. They could not be called to active duty except with consent of Congress.

The committee also: Rejected, 18 to 7, an amendment by Representative Hess (Rep., Ohio) to limit the life of the UMT plan to five years. It would be permanent.

Rejected, 18 to 8 and 17 to 9, amendments by Representative Winstead (Dem., Miss.) and Rivers (Dem., S. C.) to let trainees elect race segregation in training camps.

Approved an amendment to ban in UMT camps all drinks with alcoholic content in excess of 1 per cent.

N. C. Hotel Fire Fatal to Guest

MANTEO, N. C., Feb. 5.—(P)—Flames early Tuesday destroyed the three-story Hotel Roanoke here, burning to death one of its occupants.

The victim was Wilmer Lee Beavers, 33, a native of Graham who had lived here for 16 years. His body was recovered after the fire was extinguished.

Beavers' wife and two daughters were spending the night with her mother here.

Authorities could not determine the cause of the fire which they said originated in Beavers' apartment. Four other families occupying the building escaped injury. The loss was estimated at $40,000.

Third Trial Ordered for Miss Coplon

Hearing Slated In Washington

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The government has decided to try ex-government girl Judith Coplon for a third time on charges of spying for Russia, it was disclosed Tuesday.

The Justice department has given up any idea of retrying the petite brunette on her New York spy conviction, but will move soon for a new trial here.

The one-time Justice department employee was convicted here June 30, 1949, on charges of stealing department secrets with intent to injure this country and help Russia, and of unlawfully removing confidential papers from government files. She was sentenced to 40 months to 10 years in prison.

She was convicted in New York on March 7, 1950, with Russian engineer Valentin A. Gubitchev, of espionage for the Soviet Union. Both were sentenced to 15 years, but Gubitchev was permitted to return to Russia. Miss Coplon has remained free in bond.

Now married and expecting a baby in about a month, the former Miss Coplon had appealed both convictions. The case reached the Supreme Court which, by refusing to overturn Appeals Court decisions, virtually assured her a new trial.

The Justice department is not expected to produce any new evidence in the second trial here. It will present the same case it prosecuted successfully before a jury here in 1949, taking pains, however, not to tap the defendant's phone conversations with her lawyer.

The Supreme Court here, in ruling on Miss Coplon's appeal, upheld her conviction but ordered a hearing on her phone-tapping complaint. It said if the complaint was true, she had been denied her constitutional right to counsel and should get a new trial.

Democrats Okay Campaign Budget Of $2,800,000

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(P)—The executive committee of the Democratic National Committee Tuesday approved a 1952 campaign budget of $2,800,000.

One million dollars of it will be devoted to radio and television expenses.

The 11-member executive group also set up an arrangements committee for the party's national convention which will open in Chicago July 21.

The 21 members of the arrangements group will have no chairman, but will work with William Neale Roach, who was named general manager of the convention, a post he held at the last several conventions.

Chairman Frank E. McKinney of the national committee said consideration is being given to streamlining the convention because of plans for widespread TV coverage. Efforts will be made to limit nominating and seconding speeches to the shortest possible time.

Bomb Kills Promoter of Dog Racing

SAN MATEO, Calif., Feb. 5.—A wealthy promoter of dog racing tracks across the nation started his Cadillac Tuesday and was blown to bits by a thunderous explosion, apparently from a dynamite bomb under the floorboards of his car.

The victim, Thomas A. Keen, 56, had wide interests in dog and horse race tracks, including sportsman's Park, Cicero, Ill.

The shattering explosion wrecked the car and garage and blew a car engine mounting 25 feet, through a window of Keen's 16-room San Mateo mansion.

No motive for any attempt on Keen's life was found immediately by investigators.

Police Chief Martin McDonnell said he believed Keen was killed by some imported hoodlum who was many miles away when the blast occurred.

Paris Talks May Sever Satellite Ties

U. S. to Discuss Closing Legations

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—(P)—The State department said Tuesday it will take a new look at the question whether to shut down American embassies and legations in Russian satellite countries.

Top American diplomats to Iron Curtain countries will meet in Paris early next month to discuss this along with other problems.

The United States at present maintains embassies in Poland and Czechoslovakia and legations, headed by ministers, in Romania and Hungary.

Press officer Michael J. McDermott confirmed at a news conference that the problem of whether to continue diplomatic relations has been placed on the Paris conference agenda.

In answering questions, he made it plain the State department under present conditions favors keeping these diplomatic outposts open to serve as "listening posts."

But he left open what the United States might do if Communist governments step up their campaign of restrictions and threats against American diplomats in eastern Europe.

McDermott, in reply to further questions, said he believes the forthcoming review has no special urgency.

But responsible State department officials, who disclosed the development before McDermott talked about it, told a reporter an American embassy has proposed the shutdown.

Up to now the department has endured Communist restrictions largely on the theory that such information as the diplomatic missions would provide about developments behind the Iron Curtain was better than no official contact at all.

Stockpiling Found Cut to Grave Stage

Diversion Drain Vital Goods Stores

By AUSTIN STEVENS

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution
WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—United States stockpiling of strategic materials for a full emergency has been dealt serious setbacks through the demands of partial mobilization, strikes, high prices and world shortages. This was disclosed Tuesday in a semi-annual report of the Munitions Board to Congress.

In the same manner as the military budget has been scaled down to avoid further dislocation of the civilian economy, Munitions Board officials reported that in the six months ending Dec. 31 it had in many instances reduced the rates at which it sought to increase its stocks of the 74 items on its priority list.

Meanwhile, the goal of the stockpiling effort, on the advice of the joint chiefs of staff and other officials, was increased from $9,093,000,000 to $9,298,000,000. As of the end of the year the metals, chemicals, and other items actually stored in warehouses were valued at $3,439,717,000. Another $2,209,247,000, the Munitions Board reported, has been obligated against future deliveries.

The report reflected the growing use made of the stockpile in supporting the activities of actual defense mobilization while at the same time being called upon to fill shortages occurring in civilian production programs.

In the six months' period John D. Small, Munitions Board chairman, told Congress, more than $120,000,000 worth of aluminum, copper, lead, nickel, zinc and other materials that originally had been slated for the war reserve were diverted to industry by action of the production control agencies. Another $40,000,000 worth of aluminum, copper and lead was withdrawn from stocks themselves.

Of the 74 items on the Munitions Board's list a large number of the materials are of foreign source.

Contempt Citation For Film Maker Voted by House

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—The House Tuesday unanimously voted a contempt citation against Sidney Buchman, Hollywood producer of "The Jolson Story" and an admitted ex-Communist, who twice disobeyed a summons to appear before the House un-American activities committee.

After the vote of 314 to 0, the case was turned over to the U. S. attorney here for prosecution. A contempt of Congress conviction carries a maximum sentence of a year in prison and a $1,000 fine on each count.

Buchman, a 50-year-old writer-producer who turned out many hits during his 20 years in the film capital, identified himself as a one-time Communist at committee hearings in Los Angeles last summer, but gave little other information.

Subpoenaed twice to testify here, he failed to appear.

Truman Hits Serious Note In VFW Talk

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—President Truman said Tuesday night that the world stands between permanent world peace and the destruction of civilization.

The President injected this serious note into a genial after-dinner speech to the annual congressional dinner of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

If the Western rearmament drive is successful, Mr. Truman said, there is the hope of "peace in the world from now on."

Otherwise, the President said somberly, "it may mean the destruction of civilization."

The President spoke to an audience of more than 600, including top military figures.

A guest who attracted even more applause, however, was Capt. Kurt Carlsen of the freighter Flying Enterprise, who received repeated ovations when presented with VFW's gold citizenship medal and certificate of merit for clinging to his foundering ship during a North Atlantic storm.

Mr. Truman, referring to the forthcoming election, said amid laughter that the country is now undergoing "a certain amount of spasms."

In spite of all the election excitement, he said, the American people always rally around their government in time of crisis.

And he said that maybe this time the election will have "the right result."

He said that when the time comes "I'll tell you what the right result will be."

Then, laughing again, he added: "That's not an announcement."

Italian-born former actress Marta Abba Millikin, shown after her marriage in 1938 to Cleveland heir Severance A. Millikin, won an uncontested divorce here and a reported $1,000,000 settlement. The former star charged Millikin with "gross neglect of duty."

The Red Squeeze Is On

MOSCOW, Feb. 5.—Soviet milkmaid Yevdokia Demyanets announced Tuesday she plans to milk 55,000 litres this year from 11 cows. This works out at slightly less than 43 United States gallons a day, which is some milking. She reported that last year she pledged to get 4,000 litres from each of 11 cows, and is trying to squeeze out 5,000 from each cow in 1952.

UN Casualty List in Korea Hits 306,070

New York Times News Service
Special to The Atlanta Constitution
PARIS, Feb. 5.—The United Nations announced officially Tuesday that the countries fighting for the organization in Korea have suffered a total of 306,070 casualties.

The secretariat breakdown contained casualties up to Dec. 31, 1951. Total fatalities were 47,138, including the personnel killed in action, dead of wounds, accident or disease.

The heaviest casualties, according to the list, were suffered by the Republic of Korea, with a total of 192,960. Of the total, 27,690 were listed as dead, 61,383 missing or captured, and 103,887 wounded.

U. S. casualties added up to 103,739 with 17,754 listed as dead as of Dec. 31; 73,392 missing, and 12,593 missing or captured.

Moran Ruled Guilty On 24 Counts

NEW YORK, Feb. 5.—(INS)—Former New York Deputy Fire Commissioner James J. Moran was convicted Tuesday night on 24 counts of extortion and conspiracy as the head of a $500,000-a-year fuel oil equipment shakedown racket.

He faces a possible maximum sentence of 348 years in prison.

Moran, a close friend and political ally of ex-Mayor William O'Dwyer, ambassador to Mexico, was found guilty by an all-male jury on 23 counts of extortion and one of conspiracy. Sentencing was set by General Sessions Judge John F. Mullen for March 24.

Moran already is appealing a five-year federal prison sentence on charges of perjury before the Kefauver Senate crime investigating committee.

The 14-day trial, in which Moran failed to take the stand to defend himself, was climaxed by the prosecution's summation flaying the ex-deputy fire commissioner as the "mainspring" in a gigantic shakedown which preyed on fuel oil equipment installers.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Alfred J. Scott told the court that Moran was the "mainspring, protector and boss" of the racket in which other firemen have admitted guilt.

Scott charged: "He (Moran) ran it like a business."

Judge Mullen handed the case to the jury after hearing defense and prosecution summations that lasted more than two hours.

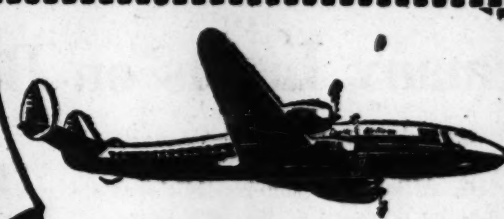

Romanian Says He Killed Karpe

BERNE, Wednesday, Feb. 6.—(INS)—The Swiss police said Tuesday night that a Romanian law student had "confessed" to the express-train slaying of Capt. Eugene S. Karpe, U. S. naval attaché, near Salzburg nearly two years ago.

But the police indicated they did not place much credence in the "confession."

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, Wed., Feb. 6, 1952 • 3

They said the Romanian, who was detained last month for questioning, had made a similar statement to the French police before he was picked up in Switzerland. The police said the law student identified himself as Ryan Parescu.

To save money is topsmost in everyone's mind. Would you believe that for little more than 5 cents a day you can make a sound investment in your future well-being? It's true... a Contour Chair-Lounge costs LESS than a good club chair and ottoman. And... you get MORE for your money... in comfort, in durability, in superlative design.

SAVES SPACE. The genuine Contour Chair-Lounge provides a hundred times the comfort in two-thirds the space required for an ordinary easy chair and hassock. It can be placed to sit snugly in a corner, because even in the reclining position, the swinging mechanism—moving smoothly on ball bearings—produces no extension of the actual overall measurement.

SAVES WORK. Someone's always coming up with a new way to save housecleaning effort. But no one's ever found anything more simple than vacuuming under a Contour Chair-Lounge! It's so much easier than having to move a heavy davenport or club chair! And... perhaps less tangible but just as important... a few minutes spent relaxing in a Contour Chair-Lounge will revive energy so that even the most exhausting chores can be accomplished with much less effort.

The dream of every man—after a nerve-racking day at the office—is to come home to a relaxed and smiling wife. And a woman quite reasonably expects her husband to save a little energy and warm companionship for herself and their children. THERE IS NO BETTER WAY TO RESTORE ENERGY AND PRESERVE COMPOSURE AND BEAUTY THAN TO RELAX IN A CONTOUR CHAIR-LOUNGE! Germany Insists on Bargaining

West German Chancellor Adenauer is proving a tough leader in negotiations with the Western Allies over his republic's role in building the defenses of Western Europe. He is showing fully that he understands Germany's position as the key to Western defense plans and that she has the advantage in negotiations because of this fact.

Adenauer says flatly that he will not initial the European army treaty under which Germany would supply armed units until "satisfactory solutions" to the problems of the Saar and German membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are reached.

In the dispute over the Saar, a point of issue between Germany and France through the centuries, the Germans have a strong case. The tiny area, 738 square miles, was separated from Germany after the first World War and administered by the League of Nations through a commission. The French had the sole right to work the mines for 15 years in payment for destruction of northern French coal mines by the German army.

The territory voted to rejoin Germany in a plebiscite in 1935. However, in the first post World War II election (Oct. 5, 1947) the Saar population voted overwhelmingly for an economic union with France. An autonomous Saarland government was granted by France in 1948 subject to French economic and financial legislation. Recently the French government named an envoy to this independent Saarland, emphasizing its independence, against German objections.

Outside of the Ruhr, the Saar basin is the most heavily industrialized locality in Europe. It has vast coal resources, steel and heavy industry. It is indeed a prize. West Germany holds that it is necessary for her economic well-being.

Only the industrial Ruhr, nationalized in 1946 on orders of the British who occupy this portion of the country, is comparable in importance to the economy of Western Europe.

Adenauer's NATO views will also gain a sympathetic audience. If Germany is to provide troops for a European army, he argues, she should also have a voice in setting NATO policies involving Germany. To limit German troops to the role of a foreign legion is unfair and unjust, he charges.

The changing attitude of the German government will delay integration of German arms and industry into Western defense plans indefinitely. Realizing the West's needs, they may be expected to continue a firm stand until concessions are made.

The importance of the West German role in Western defense plans cannot be overestimated. The industrial Ruhr has made one of the most remarkable comebacks in history. Her currency is sound and there is hope for a bright economic future if this economy can be channeled to the West. Industrial production is now 136 per cent above the 1936 level.

It is easy to understand why France fears Germany and why she is reluctant to rush ahead with plans to incorporate full German participation in NATO and a European army. She has felt the tramp of German feet and the bite of German militarism too many times to forget. However, hardheaded statesmen will sooner or later realize that there can be no permanent European recovery without full German participation.

West German steel is helping to rebuild the economic strength of Europe and can provide many of the tools of defense of Western Europe. Across the line marking the Iron Curtain, the Russians have publicly confessed that their efforts to build a "Little Ruhr" on the German-Polish border have flopped. They aren't getting the steel, the coal, and other expected goods.

There will have to be some concessions made on both sides if Western Europe, including West Germany, is to play its proper role in defending our civilization.

Citizen Welcomes Byrnes as Governor, Asks That This Not Be Misconstrued

Decatur—Like most of the people of this state, I welcome the visit by the governor of South Carolina—but like many others I would not want the welcome to be misconstrued.

Mr. Byrnes has held the highest positions in this nation which it was possible for the Democratic Party to bestow upon anyone—except the presidency. (and that may be the rub). I should think that Mr. Byrnes might have considered more carefully the possibility of restoring the Democratic Party to the condition it was in when Mr.

Byrnes was conscientiously able to accept the high offices which it bestowed upon him. This could be done only by working within the party—not by bolting it or wrecking it.

Mr. Byrnes says that loyalty to country comes before loyalty to any particular party or man or men. With that I agree. However, loyalty to country means to me loyalty to the basic ideals and political concepts of this nation. The right to cast a vote for whomever we please is basic to, and essential to, all the other rights which we enjoy.

Mr. Byrnes' part in encouraging the passage of a bill such as the recent presidential electors bill is not consistent with loyalty to the basic ideals and political concepts upon which our country is founded.

So we welcome Mr. Byrnes—just as I hope we would welcome the governor of any other state in this nation. But I believe I speak for many when I say that we welcome him as the governor of the great state of South Carolina—and not because we endorse his part in denying to the people of this state the right to vote for the presidential.

Augustan Disapproves The Electors Bill

Augusta—So the electoral bill just did squeak through!

Such a large number of the representatives of the small counties voted against it! You guessed right if you guessed that I'm against it!

The present governor will find it's a rough road to travel. Maybe he's already found it.

C. L. TONEY.

Suggests 50 Cents Tax For Long-Eared Mules

Chatsworth—I really think taxing old mules and bachelors would have been in keeping with the other silly things with which our bunch down there have occupied themselves. I guess they needed that for their salary boost.

Why don't they just pass a law that no one except a Talmadge can run for governor? After Hummon dies the next oldest male could take over, even if only a few days old.

They might also put a 50-cents per year tax on long-eared mules.

M. A. L.

Believes People Should Have Choice

Atlanta—I believe every man and woman in the state of Georgia should have a choice about how the state government is run instead of leaving it to a few puppets.

We have elected officers who are no more Democrats than Joe Stalin is in Russia and men who claim to be Republicans who are no more so than Grumky is in Russia.

The people voted against a sales tax and we have one. They voted against the county unit system. We have that. What is the answer?

AN ATLANTA VOTER.

Putting Menlo On the Map

Reference to the atlas reveals that there are four towns named Menlo in these United States . . . in Iowa, Kansas, Washington and Georgia. That's not counting New Jersey's Menlo Park. Coincidentally, save for the Kansas Menlo with less than 200 inhabitants, the others including the New Jersey suburb are all in the 400-pop. class.

As "Wizard of Menlo Park," Tom Edison put the New Jersey town on the map, so does The Menlo Civic Improvement Association aim to do the same thing for its community, which nudges the state line up in Chattooga County. That's where Look-out Mountain takes off into Alabama.

Mrs. J. E. Kennedy, publicity chairman for the MCIA, has been by to serve notice that her town intends to give others of like size a run for the prizes in the 1952 Georgia Power Better Homeowners contest.

For 40 years Menlo was at a standstill, says this aggressive civic booster, but of late there has been a great awakening. There's a new waterworks, a glove manufacturer has come in, and since 1940 the population has gone up, from 414 to 453, for a gain of almost 10 per cent.

The improvement club has set its sights for '52 on a community house, a well-equipped recreation area and a general clean-up. I hope the clean-up includes cutting the ragweed. I have a date with Mrs. Kennedy and the MCIA come next roasting ear time.

Pentagon Offensive Captures Objective

New York Times News Service Special to The Atlanta Constitution

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5.—Next to the Washington Monument and the Potomac River on an April evening, the most impressive sight in the capital of the United States is the annual Pentagon offensive against Congress. Upon the successful completion of this mission, which is designed this year to muster a military appropriation of $52,100,000,000, rests all other U. S. military operations—the protection of Korea, the containment of communism, the defense of Europe—and the strategy and tactics of the campaign are at least equal to the magnitude of the operation.

Basically, the Pentagon's strategy is the same as that applied against the Germans at Normandy in 1944 and against the Japanese at Okinawa a year later: that is to say, it is the strategy of power, getting there "fustest with the mostest," and overwhelming and silencing the opposition in the shortest possible time.

The opening skirmish in a battle started Tuesday morning in the caucus room of the Senate Office Building before a subcommittee of the Senate appropriations committee, and the Pentagon was on hand long before the opposition senators were in their places.

Sometime around dawn, an advance patrol from across the river reconnoitered the target. Shortly thereafter, the Army transportation boys started moving in the hardware. Along the windows of the caucus room, they set up two bomb sights, the old Norden sight of the last war and the new K-1 bomb sight, which automatically records everything down below, except the minutes of the Kremlin meetings.

Next came the models of the anti-aircraft guns, old model, new model; the anti-personnel mines, the electronic wonders of the age, the anti-tank weapons, etc. All these lined up in the big marble room like exhibits at a county fair, except that they were all carefully covered with white sheets, like the parlor furniture during vacation.

After the transportation corps, the official advertisers moved in with charts—visual exhibits to you. These illustrated everything from the tonnage required to maintain a soldier at the 38th Parallel to the number of drawings it now takes to produce a jet fighter (6,572). Then, just before 10 this morning, came the brains.

Usually, a cabinet officer enters a congressional committee room with a prepared statement, one or two consulting associates, and a prayer, but not the secretary of defense, Mr. Robert A. Lovett. He moved upon the target this morning with a covey of well-armed soldiers.

Everything, he explained, has been redesigned since the last war. This old War II bomb sight cost $8,000 per copy; the new K-1 (a self-calculator that laughs at the dark and loves clouds) cost $250,000. Thus, it was explained, bombsights had gone up.

Fighters were redesigned, too. Used to cost $26,471 for a fighter frame, now costs $197,309. (Somebody produced two sheets of aluminum: old one 3/16ths of an inch; new one 1/4th of an inch.) Same with almost everything.

All the senators were impressed, and Chairman O'Mahoney was absolutely delighted. To murder a shining phrase, never have so many dollars been sought so effectively by so few.

Rewarding a Section For Its Inefficiency?

We can see no fairness in the order by mobilization officials which would allot defense contracts for the armed forces to areas suffering unemployment, at the expense of other sections of the nation—creating an employment problem for them also.

We can see no justice to the hard-pressed public's taxpaying ability in permitting negotiated contracts for items needed by the Army, Navy and Marine Corps simply to give employment in a particular area.

We can see no excuse for penalizing the rest of the nation to aid one section, nor can we agree with a policy which places defense contracts on a handout basis with consequently greatly increased costs.

Why should the Southern textile industry be dealt such a blow as this because New England mills, with their high costs and other troubles, cannot meet the competition on bids for goods produced for the government? Why should Southern mill owners and Southern labor be penalized for the inefficiency of New England operations?

The United States defense mobilization officials maintain they are trying to achieve security of the free world as economically as possible. They maintain they are trying to give us a dollar's worth of defense for a dollar in tax money. How, then, can they justify arbitrarily letting manufacturing contracts without bids?

They cannot justify it.

We hope Georgia senators and representatives as well as those from all over the country will oppose such flagrant disregard of the taxpayers' welfare as this action seems to indicate. It just doesn't make sense.

We Need Only to Apply Existing Controls

The Constitution did not need to be told that there is a rabies epidemic among the foxes of middle and south Georgia. Those of us who follow the state's press closely have noted that from almost every county across the state have come reports of mad foxes raiding residential areas, biting other animals and people.

Repeatedly, we have sounded the alarm. The outbreak has reached serious proportions. It can grow much worse.

Fortunately, we have the tools for control if they are vigorously applied.

One is eradication of the fox population. The other is compliance with the state law requiring inoculation of all dogs, including foxhounds.

DeKalb Taxpayers Benefit From Airlift

In DeKalb County conscientious citizens who carry more than their share of the tax load because they are honest in making their returns are getting a lift. It's coming from the air.

Aerial reconnaissance has revealed so much hitherto untaxed property that the entire county may get a lower rate because of the increase in the total digest. That means the burden of county finance will be distributed more fairly.

Aerial photographs have resulted in another step which will lead to the same end—a larger digest and a lower rate. That is, a more nearly accurate appraisal of all property which results in an over-all higher evaluation. As taxes rise, it becomes imperative that they be collected from all citizens without fear or favor. The weaknesses of outmoded assessment systems have allowed far too many property owners to become tax dodgers. If spotting from the air is what we need to get them on the books, then let's have more sky patrols like the one in DeKalb.

Please Make Haste On 3-Day Wait Period

The three-day-waiting-period marital bill will go before the Georgia House this morning. The merits of the measure warrant its passage without debate, then a quick trip through the Senate.

By all means, this bill should be made law at this session of the assembly. Holding it over will only mean more hasty marriages, more profits for the marriage "millers," and more broken homes.

'We Hold This Truth To Be Self-Evident'

The Claxton Enterprise in Evans County has served notice that each week the following statement will run as a part and parcel of its editorial policy:

"Every government official or board that handles public money should publish at regular intervals an accounting of it, showing where and how each dollar is spent. We hold this to be a fundamental principle of democratic government."

The Claxton editor classifies the statement as a self-evident truth and concludes, "We think it is a good one for public officials to live by."

It is gratifying to see that more and more governing bodies are accepting that truth. They show it by periodic publication of financial statements in terms which the citizen of average intelligence can understand.

If the public office is a public trust—and we agree with Grover Cleveland that it is—then ever so often there comes a time for a strict accounting of trusteeship.

Fat Hardy Helped The Revenuers

Fat Hardy, who had been arrested many times for fooling with nontax-paid liquor before his chemical experiments last October fatally poisoned 38 unsuspecting citizens, will probably be surprised to learn that his activities have considerably lessened the burdens of the 30-odd federal agents who chase moonshiners in Georgia. Moonshining, in terms of stills cut down and men arrested, dropped off by a third in the months following Fat's arrest, investigation and trial, and the industry has not yet fully recovered.

According to Knox Johnston, the federal Alcohol Tax Unit's investigator in charge here, folks got scared of the white lightning and took to drinking sealed whisky. The sudden drop in demand was reflected almost immediately in a decrease in the number of stills in operation and a consequent drop in stills cut down and men arrested, a drop which, if continued, may endanger Georgia's long-held position as the moonshine capital of the universe.

If people knew how the bootleg whisky was made, says Mr. Johnston, who has been a revenue agent since 1928, and the head of the local alcohol tax unit since 1934, they wouldn't drink any of it and his whole office could go out of business. Mr. Johnston has seen thousands of stills in operation, and most of them, he says, were considerably less sanitary than the average hog pen. When the ingredients for the mash are put together—100 pounds of sugar, 100 gallons of water, a bushel of bran, a handful of potash—and the whole thing begins to work and ferment, it casts an aroma upon the woodland air that brings every pig, possum, squirrel and chipmunk for miles around to the scene.

A considerable number of them fall in and drown, but the moonshiners are not disturbed by fish them out. They make a great distinction between "drinking whisky" which they manufacture for their own use, and "selling whisky," which is hauled still hot from the stills by the entrepreneurs who truck it to Atlanta.

The days of the blood feuds between the moonshiner and the revenue have been over a long time, Mr. Johnston says. Since he took over the office in 1934, only one of his Georgia agents has been killed in a raid on a still, and no moonshiners have been killed. There seems to be something resembling a sporting atmosphere about the whole business now. The agents learn

Material Supply Assistance Planned for Georgia Firms

The government took action Tuesday to give Georgia small business firms special consideration in the matter of getting critical materials.

Carlton Hayward, director of field service for the U. S. Department of Commerce, was in Atlanta Tuesday with a group of other Department of Commerce officials from Washington to establish locally what will be known as a "small business hardship account" for extending special aid to small manufacturers experiencing hardships under the defense controlled materials plan.

Hayward said the National Production Authority, which allocates materials, is joining the newly created Small Defense Plants Administration in a move to extend such assistance.

"To reduce the number of small firms required to file production schedules and allotment requests, NPA has raised the quantities a manufacturer may self-certify on his purchase orders for the second quarter," Hayward said.

"Under this arrangement, a vast number of small manufacturers are allowed to obtain 100 per cent of their base period consumption provided the amounts were not in excess of 30 tons of carbon steel, 3,000 pounds of copper and copper base alloy and 2,000 pounds of aluminum.

"However, those companies which require larger amounts than those permitted for self-certification must file an application for them under SMP-4B. Many thousands of these firms will receive only 50 per cent of their base period usage of steel and 30 per cent of their base period of aluminum because they have little or no defense business," Hayward said.

Applications for relief under the new "hardship account" program must be filed before March 1 with the appropriate industry division of NPA in Washington or at one of the field offices of the Department of Commerce, Hayward said.

Hayward conferred with Merrill P. Lofton, regional director of the Department of Commerce. Other visiting commerce officials were Robert H. Winn, assistant general counsel of NPA; Andrew Drance, ers, shipping clerks, filing clerks, rate clerks and other such persons now employed at the capitol in the tag department.

G. A. Bonnstatler, C. Roy Mundie, Ernest L. Tutt and T. D. Watterson.

Further opposition is expected from persons who feel there is no proper machinery outlined in the bill for operating the system which would allow the tax officer of each county to handle tag sales at a fee of 10 cents per application.

PROPOSERS APPEAR

Several prominent Georgians appeared at the Tuesday hearing to speak in favor of the bill.

Members of the sub-committee are Sens. G. Everett Millican of Fulton County, Peyton S. Hawes of Elbert County and Mose Edensfield of Macon.

Proponents of the bill claim at least 50 per cent of the owners of cars in the state, including an estimated 35,000 in Fulton County, do not pay ad valorem tax on automobiles, pointing out that the proposed system would facilitate collection of the tax.

With the tax averaging $30 per automobile, enactment of the bill probably would realize for the state and counties several million dollars.

Language Prerequisite

Dropped at Vanderbilt

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 5.—Vanderbilt University this spring will begin admitting freshmen who have not studied foreign language in high school.

Further relaxing admission rules, the university said Tuesday that of 15 high school units required, only three must be in English, one in algebra and one in plane geometry.

Said Chancellor Harvie Branscomb:

"The decision recognizes the fact that secondary school education today is by no means as uniform as once was the case."

not suggest a site for the political conference. It called for a meeting within three months after a truce goes into effect. Five representatives of the United Nations on one side and five representatives of North Korea and Red China on the other would meet.

From the wording of the proposal, the Communists appeared to be trying to gain Western recognition of the "Government of the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea (North Korea) and of the Peoples Republic of China (Red China)."

For the first time in the negotiations, the phrase "Government of the Peoples Republic of China" was introduced. Heretofore, all references had been to the "Chinese Peoples Volunteers."

There was no mention in the draft of the South Korean government.

Joy told Nam the UN delegation would study the proposed draft and asked recess of the plenary session until the study was completed.

"We will advise you through liaison officers when we are ready to meet again in plenary session," Joy told the Red delegation.

Joy said that in receiving the draft for study he did not imply concurrence.

The session opened at 10 a. m. (8 p. m., EST, Tuesday) in a tent at Panmunjom. It adjourned at 10:50 a. m. There was a recess from 10:20 a. m. to 10:40 a. m.

nied this meant he had committed Britain to any retaliatory attacks on China.

EDEN DEFENDS U. S. Eden told the House of Commons the United States sincerely wants an armistice in Korea and is "as deeply anxious for peace in the Far East" as the British government.

The Conservative foreign secretary also said he believed the danger of immediate war has decreased.

The carefully-worded Labor motion did not challenge the government's foreign policy but only Churchill. It may have been designed partly to head off a stiffer motion by left-wing Laborites led by Aneurin Bevan.

The Labor motion took note of Eden's statement and welcomes

"his adherence to the policy followed by his majesty's previous administration with regard to the Korean conflict and relations between Britain and China."

But it "regrets the prime minister's failure to give adequate expression to this policy in the course of his recent visit to the United States."

Leftwing Labor member R. S. S.

Crossman asked Eden what he thought about statements "which have been made in America that in the event of an armistice not being achieved the war would

told the assembly the United States, which, in accordance with its responsibilities as the unified command is conducting the negotiations at Panmunjom, is "disturbed and disappointed" by the slow progress of the negotiations but that "we believe that an armistice is possible."

He added the United States wants an assembly discussion of Korean political and economic questions "with the least delay" after an armistice is reached, but that Soviet statements here had demonstrated that a discussion of Korea in the assembly before an armistice is reached would have an "adverse impact" on the negotiations in Korea.

NO REFERENCE

Gross made no reference to the steps the United States would favor in the event it develops that the Communists definitely will not agree to an armistice, but it is generally supposed that in that event the United States would ask the assembly to authorize drastic additional action to bring the war to a conclusion.

The resolution provides for automatic convening of the assembly if an armistice is reached, but the membership would have to be polled to authorize a special or emergency session in the event that the United States or other members felt that it was required by "other developments."

Jacob Malik of the Soviet Union replied by accusing the United States of having fought throughout the session to avoid having the Korean question taken up, either in the Security Council or in the assembly.

He charged failure to take up the Korean question had made it possible "to continue the aggression in Korea and to expand it in the Far East."

to permit officials of the Defense justification of the military budget calling for $52,000,000,000 in fiscal year 1953.

The most dramatic exhibit was unveiled by Thomas K. Finletter, secretary of the Air Force. He had two armed guards place on a small table a Norden Bombsight—the highly secret aiming device with which U. S. B-17 Flying Fortresses entered the air war in Europe in 1942.

Next, the guards took the wrappings off a long table on which was displayed the component parts of the K-1 bombing system now in use on medium and heavy bombers. There were a dozen or so parts in plain view, with other apparatus piled under the table.

The new device, Finletter told the senators, weighs 2,000 pounds and costs $250,000. It makes its own electronic calculations, he explained, and, by radar, is able to operate through overcast, at night, or in bad weather. No visual sighting of the target is required.

Morris Choice Rejects Post In Cleanup

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5—(INS). The man Newbold Morris chose for his "chief of staff" in the administration's anticorruption drive turned down the job Tuesday with regrets.

Louis E. Yavner of New York, whom Morris had hoped to put into the No. 2 spot, said it is impossible for him to assist in the scandal probe because of obligations to Rudolph Halley, president of the New York City Council.

Meanwhile, Representative Chelf (Dem., Ky.), was named to head the seven-man House committee which will investigate Attorney General McGrath and the Justice department.

Chairman Celler (Dem., N. Y.), of the House judiciary committee, which voted the probe, said the special investigating group will include three other Democrats and three Republicans.

In addition to Chelf, the members are Representatives Ramsay (Dem., W. Va.), Rodino (Dem., N. J.), Rogers (Dem., Colo.), Keating (Rep., N. Y.), Hillings (Rep., Calif.), and Bakewell (Rep., Mo.).

The House investigation of McGrath and his department was voted as an outgrowth of tax scandal charges against officials of the agency, including ousted assistant attorney general T. Lamar Caudle.

Yavner expressed disappointment at not being able to accept the job Morris offered him and said he will "always be available" when the scandal probe comes to New York on week ends.

8 per cent of the traffic in Georgia, are causing 95 per cent of the damage to the roads.

He said a lack of maintenance during the war and an increase in all types of traffic since the war put Georgia's roads in deplorable condition.

Rep. Charlie Gowen said the American Association of State Highway Officials and the Georgia Association of County Commissioners are opposed to increasing truck weights. Rep. Maddox Hale of Dade declared that if the state doesn't have funds to build a superhighway to Chattanooga without tolls, it doesn't have funds to build free highways strong enough to carry heavily loaded trucks.

CROSSES POLITICAL LINES

The fight crossed political factional lines, as some legislators charged that railroads were trying to stifle truck competition and others contended that trucks were trying to use public funds to build roads for their own interests. Legislators in debate said they had no special interest in the bill themselves.

In the Greater Atlanta, Reps. Roke Smith and Luther Alverson of Fulton, Harry Williams and Fred Bentley of Cobb voted against the bill; Rep. Muggsy Smith of Fulton, Reps. Richard Bell, Hugh McWhorter and James Mackay of DeKalb voted for the proposal.

Insurance Finance Bill Okayed by House Unit

By BILL ALLEN

The House committee on insurance Tuesday approved, 16 to 5, a Senate measure which would allow insurance Commissioner Zack Cravey to require information from companies necessary to pass on their financial soundness, and to hold public hearings in or outside Georgia.

School Building Fund Hearing Set Today

A public hearing on the House-approved proposal for an additional $5,000,000 fund for public school building has been scheduled for 2:30 p. m. Wednesday by the Senate appropriations committee.

Opponents of the bill claimed it would allow the insurance commissioner to circumvent a recent State Supreme Court ruling that deplored "management of private business by regulation."

Attorney Alex McLennan attacked the measure, saying "it delegates legislative power to Cravey and removes the right of appeal from his decision against a firm."

McLennan, who represented the Bankers Health and Life Insurance firm in the Supreme Court case against Cravey, said "hundreds of insurance attorneys have told me they fear retaliation by Mr. Cravey if they fight passage of this bill."

Appearing in favor of the bill were Frank Akers, legislative representative of the National Association of Life Underwriters and the Association of Life Insurance Presidents, and W. F. Buchanan, attorney for Acme and Family Fund insurance companies.

Buchanan said the proposal "protects insurance companies by spelling out requirements for license renewal and defines the duties of the commissioner."

The recent court decision held that Cravey's refusal to issue the Chicago firm a new license was unfair management of a private enterprise because he asked them to file records of their employees' welfare fund with him.

Cravey claims the fund was a "catch all" used hazily by the company, which he said investigation showed was owned and directed by one man.

TOLL BILL

said he did but he hoped the state some day would be able to take over the bonds.

A previously adopted motion to recess for lunch temporarily halted the session, and when the session resumed, 18 did not vote. The roll call on the resolution was 24 to 14, which lacked the necessary two-thirds majority.

Both houses held afternoon sessions to speed legislation before the end of the session.

Rep. Bush Mims of Miller County introduced a resolution that would continue his special welfare investigation committee as the "watchdog" of the state Welfare Department.

VOTING MACHINES

The House passed a bill which would permit voluntary admission to the state hospital of persons able to pay for treatment. At present persons must be declared insane to remain longer than the 30-day observation period.

The Senate also passed and sent to the governor a bill permitting cities and counties to buy or lease voting machines, and in executive session confirmed 77 recent appointments by the governor.

The Senate earlier adopted a proposed constitutional amendment which would make the state superintendent of schools the sole authority to hire and fire personnel in the Department of Education.

The resolution now goes to the House, where political observers said it might die because of earlier House efforts to have all education department reorganization proposals referred to a special committee.

PAY RAISES

The Senate also disapproved by a 30-to-2 vote a bill that could have placed state legislator elections in county primaries. The proposal would have empowered county executive committees to decide whether the legislative candidates would run in state or county primaries.

The upper chamber passed two bills which would provide pay raises for assistants in the Supreme Court and the Court of Appeals, but it did not take up Sen. Perry Pittman's proposal for pay raises for all state employees.

Pittman of Nashville said the Senate appropriations committee promised his proposal will be ready for Senate action Wednesday. Under the pay raise proposal for court assistants, clerks in both high courts would get $9,000; deputy clerks, sheriffs and laws assistants would get $6,000.

The Senate tabled a bill which would officially close the State Capitol on Saturdays and another which would place rabbits under a closed hunting season. The actions killed the bills for the session.

Probe of Road Building Asked

Rep. Grady Pittard of Clarke County introduced a resolution late Tuesday afternoon asking for a special legislative committee investigation of the State Highway Department's construction of roads and the department's enforcement of regulations governing trucks' weights and lengths.

Pittard said his resolution had no direct connection with the bill to increase truck weights and lengths but would call for a study of other state highway systems in addition to Georgia's because "we don't seem to have in Georgia a very comprehensive understanding of our highways, their use and taxes for highways."

night Lt. Gov. Marvin Griffin and House Speaker Fred Hand of the Georgia Legislature attended a dinner for the South Carolina party at the mansion.

Byrnes' speech will be carried over a network of 50 Georgia and South Carolina radio stations.

Governor Byrnes has held high offices in all three branches of the federal government. He has served as "Assistant" President, secretary of state, justice of the Supreme Court, and United States senator.

During the administration of the late President Roosevelt, Byrnes was a leader in passing "New Deal" legislation, including increased spending and court packing. He recently told newsmen that he began attacking deficit spending and federal bureaucracy when he thought the emergency program had gone far enough and it was time to "turn back."

The Terrible Story of WHITTAKER CHAMBERS

Now the whole truth comes out! Whittaker Chambers gives all the shocking facts behind the Hiss case. He reveals the inner workings of the Red spy ring he helped to build in Washington. Here are the true dimensions of the Communist threat to America. Here is one of the most remarkable documents ever written.

Only Whittaker Chambers, for thirteen years a trusted top Communist, could have written this exposé. Only he could give these exact and intimate details. He names the spies in high government jobs, gives firsthand reports of their secret meetings and records the very words of their conversations. He tells how they stole confidential documents, photographed them and delivered the films to the Russians.

Chambers also reveals how deadly the work of these Reds has been. He shows how it has already affected your life. He defines the great battle of our time, the battle between freedom and Communism—between a world with God and a world without God.

This is the story the nation has waited three and a half years to hear—the story that Ben Hibbs says is "the most important series of articles that the Post has carried in my ten years as editor. It has profound meaning for every American. It is certain to be one of the most widely and passionately discussed reports of our time."

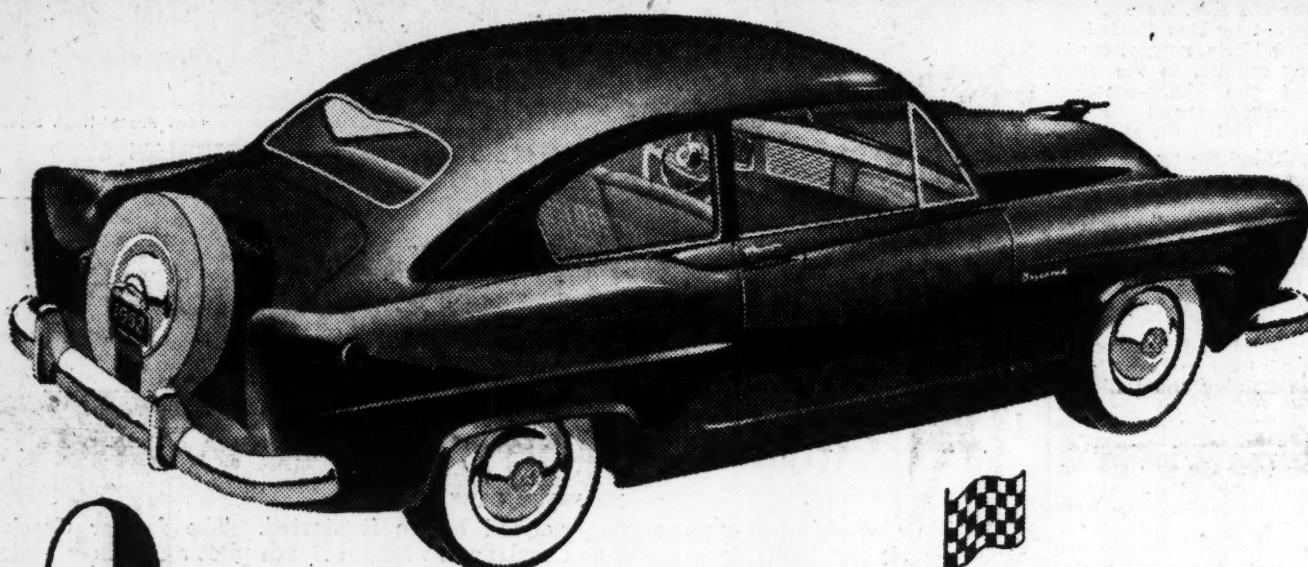

He reveals:

- ▶ The strange story of his childhood—told for the first time.
- ▶ Why he joined the Communist Party and how he became a spy.
- ▶ His life as a spy—an assumed name, secret addresses, furtive meetings.
- ▶ His first meeting with Alger Hiss. Hiss' role in the Communist conspiracy.
- ▶ How secret files were stolen, copied and delivered into Russian hands.
- ▶ How Communists wormed their way into key government agencies.
- ▶ How Red stooges helped shape government policy that has already changed your life.
- ▶ Why he broke with the Communists and exposed his former co-workers.
- ▶ What really went on behind the scenes during the Hiss trial.

Ring's Counterfeit Bills Feared Bound for Georgia

By CLARK HOWELL JR.

U. E. Baughman, chief of the U. S. Secret Service, alerted Georgia and other Southern states here Tuesday against a possible infiltration of $45,000 in bogus bills made by the notorious Skally gang of Chicago.

Corner Lot Owners May Get a Break

By HERMAN HANCOCK

A new water main deal may be in store for owners of corner lots in Atlanta.

James E. Jackson, council water committee chairman, said Tuesday the Legislature plans to approve a proposal by which corner lot owners will get a 150-foot credit if they already get water from one of the streets and a main is laid on the other alongside the same lot.

In past years corner lot owners have paid for water mains on both streets when petitions for new service were approved.

Under the new plan, the corner lot owner will not be charged for 150 feet of the second water main installation along his property. The 150-foot cost will be prorated to other owners getting the new service.

However, Jackson hit what he said was failure of the legislative delegation to co-operate in increasing the cost of laying sewers from $2 to $3 per lineal foot. Jackson said installation costs far exceed the $2 fee the city now charges.

Pupils Give $6,000

Atlanta school children contributed $6,000 in the March of Dimes campaign, Miss Ira Jarrell, city school superintendent, said Tuesday.

Provisional Mayor Pro Tem Lee Evans is acting mayor of Atlanta while Mayor Hartsfield and Mayor Pro Tem Roscoe Ailor are out of the city. Hartsfield is due back at his desk Wednesday after a trip to Washington.

Law Frowns, Smiles On Decatur Squirrels

The law is—and ain't—against those pesky Decatur squirrels, long a harassment to home owners by nesting in attics and damaging roofs.

City Commission Tuesday night repealed a 1916 ordinance which made it illegal to "kill, disturb or molest any squirrels or their nests within city limits."

Police Chief Luther Spinks favored repeal, saying he has received many complaints about the animals.

But still standing is another ordinance forbidding the shooting of firearms, air guns, dart guns or slings.

"Trap them," suggested Chief Spinks, adding dolefully, "We may have to make special provisions for a man to clean them out with a shotgun."

Truck Recovered But, Liquor Gone

Detectives Tuesday recovered a green delivery truck taken with 85 cases of legal liquor in a daylight robbery on Luckie St., N. W. The truck was found abandoned in the center of Miller-Reed Ave., near Chosewood Park, Dets. N. W. Flanagan and O. L. Adams said. They added the machine apparently was unloaded and abandoned there immediately after the robbery Monday.

Bowen's Cabin Cruiser, Plot Bring $16,750

The 40-foot cabin cruiser, "Virgil-Jo," and Spalding County real estate belonging to John Horace Bowen, Georgia liquor dealer, have been sold for $16,750. The cruiser was purchased by Griffin paid $8,750 for Bowen's interest in Spalding County real estate. Recorders Bowen's assets handled the sales.

Both Houses Study Wage Raise Bills

Cost-of-living adjustments in the pay of state officials and employees would be provided by legislation up for consideration in both houses of the General Assembly Wednesday.

A substitute bill is ready for action in the House in a move to reconsider a pay raise proposal that failed of passage Monday.

The substitute would adjust the pay of state officials and employees so as to give them compensation with purchasing power equal to the buying power of their pay on Jan. 1, 1943. Since the cost-of-living index has risen 96 per cent since that date, the proposed legislation would give state officials and employees allowances so as to double their 1943 compensation.

In many instances, however, the pay of state officials and employees has already been adjusted in recent years to double their 1943 salaries. Under the provisions of the new bill these officials and workers would get no increased allowances.

A Senate resolution similar to the House bill and authored by Sen. Perry L. Pittman of Nashville was approved by the Senate appropriations committee Tuesday and is scheduled for a vote Wednesday.

FOURTH HIT OF SEASON

Miss Mayon, Low Spark Inge's Drama at Penthouse

By PAUL JONES

William Inge's provocative drama about a reformed alcoholic—"Come Back Little Sheba"—was presented for the first time in Atlanta Tuesday night as the Penthouse Theater offered its fourth hit production of its new season.

We will not attempt to say whether it was Inge's play or the remarkable acting of the very capable Penthouse troupe which made this play hold everyone's interest throughout. "Sheba" is a good play—not a great one. It starts off rather slowly, but Inge has crowded more action into the final act than most plays offer all night.

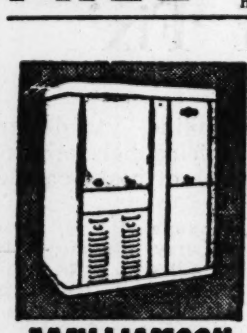

One thing is certain, however. The performances of Helen Mayon and Carl Low are magnificent. We have seen many "drunk" acts on the screen and stage, but Low's impersonation of the inebriated Inge is something to behold. Miss Mayon, who has staged something of a talking marathon in three previous plays, again essays a difficult role with all the polish and finesse a great actress could possess.

While Atlanta's taste runs toward comedy, this play offers the arena showcase a needed change of pace.

Truck Firms Rule Out Mediation

Federal mediation of the 10-state AFL truck drivers strike collapsed Tuesday night at Memphis, an operators' spokesman said.

A. E. Green Sr., chairman of the Southeastern Carriers Association Committee, said, "We have wired the panel we are not interested in any more meetings with them."

The federal mediators, with three days of conferences behind them, declined comment on prospects for an end to the walkout of over the road truck drivers and trucking company employees.

Meanwhile, in Atlanta a union spokesman said an agreement had been reached Tuesday night in Memphis by Associated Transport, Inc., and pickets had been called off at the terminal at 172 Howell St., N. E., and the men had gone back to work.

Thousands of tons of outbound freight normally handled by trucking companies went out of Atlanta by rail, with train terminals estimating business up from 20 per cent to 100 per cent.

The 100 per cent figure was reported by the N. C. & St. L., whose regular workers were on overtime and extra men had been added.

Two of the unionized trucking companies in Atlanta—Roadway Express, Inc., and Dixie-Ohio Co.—were working normally Tuesday, having come to an agreement with the Southern Conference of Teamsters.

Order of Moose Donates $1,000 To Boys Estate

Brunswick's Boys Estate kicked off its Fulton County fund drive Tuesday by accepting a $1,000 gift from Gov. Al Ewing of Atlanta Lodge No. 65, Loyal Order of Moose.

The home for boys is seeking $150,000 from the state with $25,000 expected to come from Atlanta and Fulton County. The drive under Fulton chairman William L. Brady will run through February with a report meeting Feb. 19 at the Town House.

Judge William M. Woolfolk of the Fulton County Juvenile Court said Boys Estate is one way of cutting down juvenile delinquency.

Some scholars say the old Arabic name for Madrid was derived from a root word meaning flowing or changing air.

Chief War Eagle Scalps Merchant, Hits Trail With $348 in Wampum

Big Chief War Eagle left town Tuesday, with Atlanta gendarmes war whooping close behind. The chief—who claims to be a full-blooded Indian and a descendant of a tribal chieftain—bought $328 worth of merchandise from a local furniture store, Dets. T. J. Milligan and Henley Wilbur related. He gave in payment a check made out for $348 and signed: "Thomas W. War Eagle."

Milligan and Wilbur said the check was returned with the notation: "No commercial account in this name."

War Eagle left a marked trail, however. Detectives said he paused in Chamblee long enough to pass out a bogus check for $5 to cover a purchase of gasoline.

$659,641 School Budget Studied At Decatur

A $659,641 school budget, including $330,000 raised by city taxes, was accepted for consideration Tuesday night by the Decatur City Commission.

In other action, J. Ed Hill reported for a special committee that Atlanta Transit Co. had declined to help finance repaving of S. McDonough St., which residents claim has been damaged by trolley traffic.

New P.O. Station At Tenth St. Is Projected

Postmaster Lon Livingston announced plans Tuesday for a new post office station for the Peachtree Rd.-Tenth St. section to replace the present "outgrown" facilities.

Livingston said the Post Office department would sign a 10-year lease with a private real estate developer or contractor for the building. No cost figures were given.

The proposed new building will be a one-story brick structure containing between 7,500 and 8,000 square feet.

In making the announcement, the postmaster cited growth of the Tenth Street station to the present yearly business of $1,005,000, making it the third largest station in the city.

ACCESSORY SHOPS

Annie Lou Hardy Clothespin Chandeliers To Glisten in 'Traviata'

A popular Atlanta matron, in a chance meeting with Mrs. Henry Tompkins, inquired what she had been doing.

"Making chandeliers out of plastic clothes pins," came the amazing answer.

Seeing the startled look on her friend's face, Mrs. Tompkins went on to explain that the chandeliers were needed in the stage setting for the Atlanta Opera Company's presentation of "La Traviata," opening Wednesday evening at the Tower Theater. Since none were available, the ingenious Mrs. Tompkins undertook to make a pair.

Launching the project in her guest room, she solicited the aid of Mrs. Ryburn Clay and Mrs. William Conrad. Beginning with frames of wood and chicken wire, they have contrived two huge and very realistic chandeliers sparkling with hundreds of prisms which, believe it or not, are either clear plastic clothes pins or plastic spoons split in two.

BEFORE THE OPENING PERFORMANCE of "Traviata" on Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell will entertain a few friends at a buffet supper at their W. Wesley Rd. residence.

A FORMER ATLANTAN receiving a cordial welcome in the city is Mrs. Joel Hurt of Miami, who is the guest this week of her daughter, Mrs. Anne Parke, on N. Colonial Homes Cir., and her sister, Mrs. George Weyman, on Stratford Rd.

DR. AND MRS. LON GROVE are at Sea Island, where they are spending 10 days at the Cloister.

A VALENTINE MOTIF will feature the decorations when members of the Fulton County Medical Auxiliary entertain at luncheon Wednesday at the Academy of Medicine for the wives of the state legislators. Mrs. J. Harry Rogers, left, and Mrs. Frank Brewer, right, who are in charge of the event, confer with the Auxiliary president, Mrs. Walker Curtis, about the arrangements. Atlanta Constitution columnist Celestine Sibley will be the speaker.

Ryburn Clay and their daughter, Mrs. Joseph Ratterree, will leave for New Orleans Feb. 22. They will be guests for a week at the St. Charles Hotel, returning to Atlanta Feb. 29.

MRS. EUGENE SMITH leaves this week for Thomasville, where she will spend two weeks as the guest of Mrs. Florine Rockwell.

THE DAUGHTER BORN to Mr. and Mrs. C. Buck LeCraw on Feb. 3 at Piedmont Hospital has been named Julia Adams. Mrs. LeCraw is the former Ruth Florence of Powder Springs.

MR. AND MRS. FRED SORROW and Miss Edythe Sorrow are spending several days in Pass Christian, Miss., where they will attend the marriage of Miss Patricia Brown to Henry Waters II.

ATLANTANS ENJOYING the Florida sunshine are Mrs. Wilshire Riley, who is spending several weeks at the Floridian Hotel on Miami Beach, and Mrs. Meyer Rich, who is a guest at the new Allison Hotel on the same beach.

LEAVING THURSDAY, Mrs. James E. Duffell will fly to Panama Canal Zone where she will spend two weeks as the guest of her son and daughter, Capt. and Mrs. James H. Proctor, and their young sons, Jimmy, Dickie and Michael, at Fort Kobbe. After her visit there Mrs. Duffell will go to Lima, Peru, for a 10-day stay at the Hotel Bolivar.

MR. AND MRS. ROBERT B. PEGRAM JR. have returned from a 10-day stay in Key West and other Florida resorts.

AFTER FOUR YEARS spent in Europe with the State department, attached to the Air Force, Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Turner, are back in this country. They are now visiting Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Bryant in Aliceville, Ala., but will return this week end to be guests of their parents, Dr. and Mrs. Herman L. Turner, on Peachtree Rd., before leaving for Mr. Turner's new post at West Point, New York.

By SCARLETT RICKENBAKER

If you're strapped this season, you're right in style.

And we speak not of your present state of financial depletion, but rather what's afoot for you this spring. Shoes, that is. Straps, it seems, have come to mean more than just something to grab when you have to stand up on the bus.

They wind lovingly around your bare toes, march across your instep, and caress your trim ankle.

They're foot-loose and fancy free and they're outrageous flatterers.

CHILLS AND FEVER!

Take, for instance, the continental savoir faire of the sandal pictured top right. Its wearer possibly may come down with chills and fever from overexposure, but she'll walk in high-heeled cobwebs until then.

This particular shoe, although a newcomer to Atlanta, already has stepped into high fashion on the Champs Elysee.

Pretty model Dot Hurt wears her straps down to earth in a pair of caramel-colored sandals. There's a strap down the middle of the instep, and look, Ma, no toes!

Just below Dot are pictured the American adaptation of Britain's most popular innovation . . . the all-in-one heel, with straps crossed, Mary Jane fashion, at the instep. These come in many color combinations . . . this one's natural, and maroon.

COMFORT FIRST

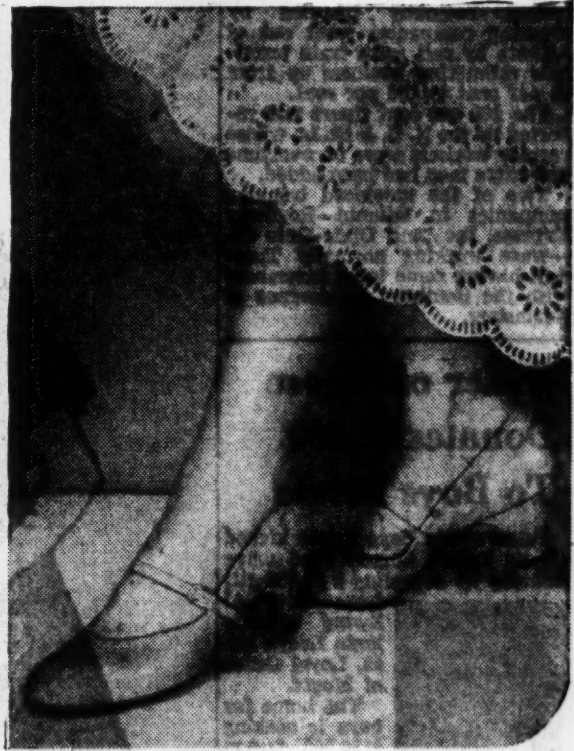

Bottom right is the now-famous walker . . . the endearing little shoe that charms Atlanta business girls right off their feet . . . into the nearest shoe store.

The heel is little Louis, a comfortable height for all day at work, and still enough heel to click down the corridors and draw an appreciative whistle from the boss.

The narrow instep strap gives the shoe a town-and-country air, and the colors are tangerine, mimosa, red, navy, chocolate, or black.

Top left is also shoe news . . . the fabric and leather combination. This one's a pump after the Victorian mud-guard, with gray slubbed silk (a heavy textured shantung) and black patent. It can be had in brown patent, and beige silk.

Bottom left, it's little Louis again . . . the irresistible heel with the French accent. Here, in a wonderfully simple and simply wonderful black calf that foot the bill from sun-up to moon-down. A shoe any smart girl will get a kick out of.

Bessie Tift Unit Holds Benefit

Mrs. Olin S. Cofer's home on Lullwater Rd. will be the scene of a spring party Thursday at 8 p. m. when members of the Atlanta Bessie Tift Club entertain.

A feature of the party will be a wishing well for the well-wishers of the college, the proceeds to go to the new infirmary.

Assisting Mrs. Cofer will be Misses Lucile Moncrief and Mildred Ligon, Mrs. Louie D. Newton, Mrs. Don Bridges, Mrs. Alton Tribble, Mrs. L. D. Bailey Sr. and Mrs. Emmett Jackson.

Bass PTA to Hear

Dr. Allen D. Albert

Dr. Allen D. Albert Jr., chairman-on-leave of the sociology department of Emory University, will speak to Bass High School PTA at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, Feb. 12. "The Youth of Tomorrow" will be Dr. Albert's topic.

Atlanta Artist George Beattie To Give Show

The paintings of Atlanta artist George Beattie Jr. will be displayed in a one-man show Sunday from 3 to 7 p. m. at the Gallery on Ellis St.

Tea time on that day will find guests viewing the work done during a recent stay in Italy. The show will be open to the public until March 1.

Mrs. Ernest Felber and Mrs. William Elsas of the Gallery will receive with Mr. and Mrs. Beattie.

Hostesses for the opening include Miss Isabel Johnston, Mrs. Harold Patterson, Mrs. Julian H. Harris, Mrs. John Appleby, Mrs. Harold Bush-Brown, Mrs. Herbert D. Oliver, Mrs. E. R. Hunter, Mrs. Arthur Harris Jr., Mrs. Preston Stevens, Mrs. Lewis Hirsch and Mrs. Matt Jorgensen.

Edwina J. Ford To Be June Bride Of Arnie R. Page

SYLVESTER, Feb. 5—Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jones Ford announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Edwina Julia Ford, to Arnie Rushing Page. The marriage will take place June 8 at the First Baptist Church here.

Miss Ford attended Valdosta State College, where she received the B. S. degree in home economics last June. At present she is home economist for a utility company in Vidalia.

Mr. Page, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin R. Page of Vidalia, was graduated from Georgia Military College and attended Georgia teachers College. He enlisted in the U. S. Army in 1948 and was stationed at Camp Hood, Texas.

After a tour of active duty, he went into the enlisted reserves and was recalled in 1950 to serve seven months in Korea. Since his release from service he has been associated in business with his father.

Celestine Sibley On a Child And a Hog

The morning mail can either be horrible and plunge you into the slough of Despond for the rest of the day or it can be wonderful and hoist you to the peaks. In spite of knowing it can be either way, we are always incurably optimistic about the mail. We approach the stack in the newsroom with the attitude that it's going to give up something wonderful that will change our life or, at the very least, give us a column for that day.

Our life only gets changed in little ways. (Was it Dorothy Parker who said something like, "This not little's going that haunts my days; but that it went in little ways?")

Sometimes the column material comes in chunks. For instance, we hear via Fred Cannon, from M. E. Beecher, grandfather of little Sharon Lee Beecher, who was sent to her grandparents in Taer, Iowa, by the Shriners after she lost both her parents, her little brother and her home in a fire out on Briarcliff Rd. Sharon had some relatives here, cousins of her mother, who grew up in Rome, but it was decided that she go home to her grandparents in Iowa.

Writes Grandpa Beecher: "We have just returned from the hospital at Waterloo where little Sharon had the surgery on her hands. . . . She had a blood transfusion after the surgery and it put new strength into her little body and she was feeling quite cheerful when we left. . . .

"Popperjack" (the dog the Shriners found and sent to Sharon) came through in good shape and is making his home with Wes for the present. Sheri gave me instructions that Gramps was to feed him. We extend our thanks to you people in doing this act of kindness for Sheri as I know that she is going to enjoy the only living creature that is left of her family."

Then from our country friend, Maggie Davis, the radio commentator who took up farming near Jonesboro, we get a report on her adventures in pig-raising. Speaking of her favorite sow, Maggie says:

"Since she had her 10 little pigs I think she feels the need to get away from it all and every once in a while she jumps the hog fence and meanders out into the front yard or up to Kendrick's barnyard to visit. A hog loose in the country can cause all sorts of damage. . . . Once three hogs tried to eat up my yellow orandy curtains while they were hanging on the clothesline.

"So when the sow gets out I have to get a bucket of feed and race for the hog pen, whooping and hollering with the sow charging along behind. The other day she caught me with a lard can full of feed at the gate. I couldn't get the gate open fast enough with one hand so I put the lard can over the barbed wire fence.

"Before I could get the gate open, the sow charged between my legs, stuck her head through the barbed wire fence and started eating out of the bucket. There I was, pushed up against the fence, astride a 375-pound hog, with just the tips of my toes touching the ground.

"It's times like these when a good durable philosophy comes in handy. A fatalist would feel that the hog would probably pitch him over the fence on his head anyway. An optimist would figure that someone would come along with a stick and drive the hog away from the feed. But a farmer just figures that this, too, will pass.

"And it did. Three automobiles on the road and 10 minutes later the sow moved massively through the fence, barbed wire and all, and went off with the lard can on her head, still eating. And I went back for more feed. Living in the country is so good for the soul!"

And hearing from the country is one of the things that helps to keep us content in the city.

MARY HAWORTH

Her Happiness Shadowed By Guilt Over Old Affair

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I have hesitated long before writing this, but I feel a complete mental breakdown unless I find the solution soon. I am happily married, have a darling little boy and consider myself extremely fortunate. But the cloud on the horizon is a sense of guilt.

Before I met my husband I had an affair. I cannot account for this misconduct on my part, as my upbringing was religious and I hadn't been wayward before. But for a brief time I seemed to lose all perspective. I do realize this was a mistake that I cannot change; and that I should turn from the past, start my best in the here-and-now. But the fact remains that I can't.

I am tempted to confess to my husband, but realize this would be unfair to him—just a selfish attempt to unburden my conscience. While I am in his company with our son I know that I am not worthy of either one.

I love Larry and our son more than anything else in the world, and Larry loves me and looks up to me, as being morally good, and someone who could do no wrong. If he knew the truth I am sure he'd love me still; but naturally, he'd lose the respect he now has for me. What shall I do?

DEAR L. S.: You are emotionally sick from nervous tension and apprehension. And you need help from a wise sympathetic confessor—who might be a clergyman or a psychologist. But perhaps it will give you some relief to hear right off (from me) that your distress—your desperate sense of outcast anxiety—dates much farther back than the brief affair.

Powerful unrecognized emotional needs temporarily got the upperhand of reason, but you'd been a soul in conflict long before then—from the earliest years of life, no doubt.

When you haven't cause in the here-and-now for worry you delve back into the past for a bogeyman to keep you company. You are so fixed in habits of worry that in a happy situation devoid of real threats you develop a sense of maladjustment—of having got there by mistake.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT!

Fidgeting, nose-picking and a tormenting rectal itch are often tell-tale signs of Pin-Worms. . . . Only parasites that medical experts say infest one out of every three persons examined. . . . But Pin-Worms may be victims and not know it.

To get rid of Pin-Worms, these pests must not only be killed, but killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P.W. Tablets do. . . . and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Don't take chances with this dangerous, highly contagious condition. At the first sign of Pin-Worms, ask your druggist for genuine Jayne's P.W. Tablets. . . . The small, easy-to-swallow tablets perfected by famous Dr. D. Jayne & Son, specialists in worm remedies for over 100 years.

JAYNE'S P.W. for PIN-WORMS

Right Food Helps You Grow Tall

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Nutrition is growing up. . . . certainly in the last 20 or 30 years, nutrition has been challenging heredity on the height score. While tall parents have tall children, it might be questioned as to how much is traceable to ancestry and how much to the family food habits.

Today's column is for the benefit of shorties who write posthaste inquiring about fast-growing foods, and their chances of growing taller. The "shooting up" period is 14 to 18. Girls may start earlier, around 12. On the average, a girl's growth is pretty well fixed by 16. The increase from 16 to 20 is normally only eight-tenths of an inch.

The growing up years for a boy are often longer. . . . up to 18, and there may continue to be a slight increase up to 20. Just how many more inches can be added depends on your nutrition. There is considerably more growing-up material in some foods than in others. Here is the daily food pattern which can help you outstrip your ancestry.

Milk, a quart a day, at least one egg, a serving of meat, vegetables, dressing green leafy and yellow, fruits including oranges or grapefruit; whole grain cereals and whole grain or enriched bread. This list insures adequate growing protein and minerals and those essential vitamins.

Eat all vegetables, take seconds on greens, ask your mother to serve liver twice a week, and suggest 100 per cent whole grain bread and hot cereal, such as oatmeal. If your growing time is short, ask the doctor to prescribe a vitamin B complex, furnishing all the B factors, so important to growth.

If you are on the skinny side, don't spoil your appetite for good nutrition by having soft drinks, sodas, coffee, tea or cigarettes. A good tip. . . . rest before the main meal aids in the assimilation of food.

Fowler PTA

Recalls Founders

A founder's day program of Fowler Street School PTA will feature a talk by S. M. Hastings and a panel discussion led by Mrs. C. W. Milam, 8 p. m. Tuesday in the school auditorium.

Mr. Hastings, principal of O'Keefe High School, will discuss "PTA Benefits to Schools." The panel will cover national PTA history, according to Mrs. John Bedford Jr., president.

Bringing Up Baby

Hints Collected by Mrs. Jean Carlsen (Mother of 5)

Claustrophobia is just a fancy word for what most of us know as a "hemmed-in" feeling. Sometimes little folks get that feeling, too, even if they don't know what it is! So don't let your darling spend too much time cooped-up in his play-pen or crib. By the time he begins to creep, let him out for certain periods. Exploring the various nooks and crannies of a room will help develop his sense of freedom and independence. And he'll learn a lot of new things about handling himself.

Thumbs down! A nag-proof way of helping an older child get over the thumb-sucking habit is to distract him with toys and little games that you play with him requiring the use of both hands. Such diversion is fun for the little one, less of a strain on you.

"Fruitful" idea dept. You'll be mightily rewarded with gurgles galore, when you treat your pride and joy to Gerber's Strained Fruits. Gerber's Peaches, Pears, Apricots, Plums, Prunes and Applesauce have so much eye-appeal it's small wonder even little babies beg for big portions. (One taste yourself, will tell you what we mean.) Why not keep a variety on hand to tickle baby's palate and yours?

Taste-ful P. S. A spoonful or two of Gerber's Strained Fruit as a topping on baby's cereal makes a delightful taste treat.

No charge. For your free samples of Gerber's Rice Cereal, Barley Cereal, Oatmeal and Cereal Food (wheat), write me, Mrs. Dan Gerber, Box N45-C, Fremont, Michigan.

Men Are Among Best Homemakers---Expert

By AGNES REASOR OLMSTEAD

"Men are becoming excellent homemakers. Today husbands are doing work around the house that formerly they wouldn't be caught dead doing," said Dr. I. V. Sperry, associate professor of family development at the University of Georgia speaking before the Home Economics Section, Association of Southern Agriculture Workers Conference in Atlanta.

Family relationship, stability and harmony came under a day-long discussion of better citizenship through family life education. All speakers agreed the family is America's secret weapon and needs to be kept strong.

Happy family living is achievable but it's not automatic. You must study and prepare for it, Dr. Sperry pointed out. Industrial progress has made the American homemaker less sufficient. Since it is no longer the manufacturing center it once was, boys and girls grow up not knowing how to do things.

The source of authority has changed in modern homes; "homesteads" have disappeared with our greater mobility. There is an ever-changing picture of new wants and desires so closely identified with progress.

All of these have a tendency to destroy the home. Yet at the same time we have not worked proportionately hard to develop strong family relationships to offset the opposition.

Most of us learn good family life by living in good families and by visiting in good families, observing how members live, talk and act.

Programs on preparation for marriage (this does not mean sex education) should begin in the Junior high school where some children are getting married or thinking about it, according to Miss Martha I. McAlpine, Family Life Education Specialist, University of Georgia.

Teen-agers need the adult approach to these problems. Boys should be taught to think about the kind of girl they are going to marry to help with their homemaking.

Education for family life is something adults need too. When you bear a child, common sense in raising it doesn't follow. Parents need to study the vast wealth of printed material available or to contact some of the many groups and agencies devoted to this type program.

Over and over again speakers commented on the need for families to build their homes on the principles of Christian living. They pointed out that such homes have the lowest divorce rates.

There is tremendous preparedness pressure on today's family, reported Miss Mary Rokahr, Home Economics head of Extension Service, U. S. Dept. of Agriculture. Restrictions on housing, conservation programs, taxes and inflation as well as the civil defense program are adding extra pressure over and above those from normal living, she continued.

It takes a wise family to cope with modern problems and still maintain wholesome strong homes.

Your Stars Today

Daily Guide—A fairly neutral day with an accent on things of the past, customs, clothes and a way of life. If you are shopping for antiques or things for the home, the old-fashioned will appeal more than the modern. This is a good time also to reflect and meditate, even to be a little sentimental. Sentiment seems to be rapidly disappearing from our daily lives.

Happy Birthday, Aquarius! Feeling a little like telling someone off? Don't. Use your energy constructively or store it up for something really worth the effort. You should build up your reserves for action which is likely to come later in the year. If you strike out now you may have to retrace your steps. There is quite a bit of pleasant activity right in your immediate vicinity. You don't have to travel far afield to have good times and find profitable opportunities. Take no big risks and curb impatience.

Mother of 3 Honored by PTA Group

A Cascade Heights housewife can turn her back on the PTA treasurer. Her dues are paid in advance for the next 25 years.

Mrs. James H. Aldredge of 1717 Havelon Dr., S. W., has earned a life membership to E. L. Connally Parent-Teacher Association, the first given by the group.

For 19 years, Mrs. Aldredge she has "dabbled" in Connally goings-on.

She remembers when the school was two rooms, 20 years ago; when the "new building" went up in 1936. She was president of the PTA when the new auditorium was built six years ago.

At one period, Mrs. Aldredge was "juggling" offices in three PTA's, Connally, Joe Brown and old Atlanta Boys High. "One for each of my children," explains the mother of Hugh C. Aldredge, James Aldredge Jr. and Sara Elizabeth Aldredge.

Looking back, she believes the highlight of her PTA career was helping push a law through the State Legislature "making it a crime to molest minors." That was in 1949.

She is proud of helping with food rationing during World War II, as a member of Joe Brown PTA. She is the wife of Fulton County's Commissioner of roads and revenues.

Music Lectures Planned by Piedmont Club

Lecture recitals ranging in subject from Johann Bach, up to modern day artists will be offered to Atlanta music lovers during the next three weeks.

As President of the Piedmont Garden Club, Mrs. Thomas Morgan announces her group will sponsor the musical series on Feb. 8-15-22 at the Habersham Rd. home of Mrs. Edward Van Winkle.

Illustrated lectures will be a part of the programs to be given by Mrs. Evans Hall Jr. and Mrs. Jean Sterret.

Proceeds will go to the club's fund to be used for a garden at the High Museum of Art.

PERFUME THAT CLINGS

Q. Dear Penny: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily, and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $1.85 plus tax at better stores.

Sometimes there's nothing like a "good talk"

You know how it is when you wrestle with a problem . . . Then you decide to talk it over with a friend or neighbor . . . and you're surprised to find how much it helps to clarify your mind and make a logical decision.

We would like you to look to us in the same way when you need assistance in investing. Here at Thomson & McKinnon you'll find men who are good listeners, and have wide experience gained in solving many investment problems. Also, they have available a wealth of information being gathered continuously by our Investment Research Department.

(COLORED) (IN MEMORIAM)

In memory of our mother, Mrs. Lige Walker, who died at her home at Stonycreek, Ga., on June 2, 1926, at the age of 72 years, a life well lived, a life of true piety, a life that has left behind it a trail of good deeds and a memory that will be a source of comfort and inspiration to all who loved her. Her death is a great loss to her family and to the community. Her life was a life of true piety and a life that has left behind it a trail of good deeds and a memory that will be a source of comfort and inspiration to all who loved her.

us to forget,
but time so far has only proven how much we miss you yet.

Marlene Gets a Quip: 'Tiring, Wasn't It?'

Marlene Dietrich and this reporter were first to go backstage, on opening night of ill-fated "Gertie," to congratulate Welsh actress Glynis Johns on her engaging performance in a weak play. Cooed Marlene: "Darling, I was sitting out there." Said Glynis, her eyes twinkling: "Tiring, wasn't it?" ... Two days later, Miss Johns married Londoner Robert Foster, son of the chairman of the board of Colgate-Palmolive, whose rival had been Anthony Darnborough, producer of Somerset Maugham's "Trio" and "Quartet." ... Twenty-below-zero weather wins the season's rugged title for Carol Channing and her "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes" tourists, playing in Minneapolis. ... Washington whispering that a Polish professor, survivor of the massacre of 15,000 Polish soldiers in Katyn Forest, will solve the Russian-German dispute as to the killers, before the House of Representatives probes.

Back in 1910, juke boxes of the era were exempted from payment of "performance" fees to SCAP, because the juke box could only be heard by the person using the set of earplugs attached to the machine. Now that the juke box sprays out music for entertainment and dancing in restaurants, clubs and bars, composers want the ancient exemption voided. The Kefauver-Bryson bill to this effect, however, must pass through House and Senate judiciary committees to reach the floor for debate. First test occurs this week in the House committee, with Washington loaded with SCAP and BMI lawyers, glaring at juke box lobbyists battling to avoid annual royalties that would go into the millions.

"Operation Smile" describes project of 5th Infantry Division, at Indiantown Gap, Pa., to cheer leukemia victim, Anna Mae Brandt, 12-year-old Harrisburg girl. Special Services transported 100 GI magicians, ventriloquists, clowns and singers to Philadelphia Children's Hospital to cheer her and other young patients. This thrilling exposition of tenderness indicates why American soldiers captured the affections of every nation they've ever visited. ... Scientific Neglect Called Good Practice

For divers reasons the let-alone or scientific neglect of ulcers, wounds and other surface lesions or breaks of the skin is the most difficult to carry out.

I learned my first lesson about this the first month I served in the mines—in private practice. A teen-age boy sustained a compound fracture of the femur, that is, a broken thigh bone with one fragment projecting through the skin.

I cleaned the wound carefully, applied a sterile (germ-free) dressing and put the limb in Hodgson's suspension. This is a hammock suspended from the ceiling, so arranged that a constant moderate pull is kept on the foot. In the course of several days this steady traction brings the fragments into as nearly perfect apposition as is surgically or mechanically possible.

Being an honest doctor I gave an honest answer when a newspaper reporter asked whether I had "reduced" the fracture. "Not yet," I replied foolishly, "complete reduction will take several days." So the newspaper revealed that I had not reduced the fracture and Dr. So-and-So, who had been called in later, said the patient was doing as well as could be expected, etc. You may not believe it, but it took me more than five years to learn that you can't tell patients the truth and hold their patronage.

Under ideal conditions a wound, burn or ulcer will heal just so fast and no antiseptic can make it heal any faster. To ascribe "healing" virtues to medicaments, old or new, is childish.

In the care of any wound, burn or ulcer it is well to keep in mind the fact that even the gentlest, most skillful handling for inspection or change of dressings inevitably destroys some of the delicate new tissue cells and consequently retards or sets back the healing process.

These newly formed tissue cells are perhaps more vulnerable to "powerful" antiseptics than most germs. This explains why simple wounds, burns or other minor lesions take so long to heal when maltreated with antiseptic nostrums.

Signed letters, not more than one page or 100 words long, pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease, diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed and addressed to The Constitution.

Georgia's First 'Big Shot'

In the 18th Century the number of slaves a man owned was the yardstick by which his standard of living, influence in the community and political importance were usually measured. Until the Civil War, the value of those held in bondage far exceeded the land, buildings and equipment of the great plantations. During the Revolution, when money was practically nonexistent, slaves were accepted as human currency throughout the new nation. At that time, John Brunet, Georgia's first "big shot" gangster, conceived the idea that led to what is probably the largest theft ever committed in the state. Leading his early racketeers, Brunet staged daring raids on Tory estates and made off with their slaves. Then cleverly working his way into the confidence of leading patriots, who were too busy fighting for their country to protect their personal interests, he gained guardianship of their best vasals and other valuable possessions. All of these were to be taken to a safe place until peace, when they would be redistributed. He carried them to a "safe" place without a doubt, but it happened to be in Spanish Mississippi, where he settled down to a life of ease and prosperity with his newly acquired wealth! The value of his "haul" today would run into the millions.

NEW green toothpaste with miracle chlorophyll!

Clean Fresh Mouth
All Day Long!

NOW—a new miracle toothpaste containing chlorophyll! Called Chlorodent, it stops mouth odor all day long. It fights tooth decay and common gum troubles.

This new green toothpaste was used in hundreds of tests on people who were afflicted with bad breath. When they brushed their teeth with Chlorodent, their mouth odor disappeared. Two hours later, their breath was still clean and fresh in 98% of the cases. Four hours later, 74% were still free of mouth odor!

Chlorophyll doesn't just cover up mouth odor, but destroys it. By using Chlorodent regularly—preferably after meals—you can be free of mouth odor all day long!

So, try it right away! See for yourself why Chlorodent is winning friends faster than any other toothpaste! Water-soluble chlorophyllins

Smith-Hughes Carburetion Clinic Slated

The annual carburetion clinic for automobile mechanics conducted by Smith-Hughes Vocational School under the direction of the State Department of Vocational Education will begin Monday, Feb. 11.

Registration will be held from 7 to 9 p. m. Thursday in Room 132 of the Smith-Hughes Vocational School.

The clinic will consist of 12 two-hour classes held two nights a week for six weeks.

Instruction will consist of general discussion of various types of carburetors as well as actual experience in disassembling, assembling and adjusting all kinds of carburetors. Special tools, charts and other materials will be made available to the class.

Warren "Red" Hoyt, who has had more than 30 years of experience in specialized carburetion work, will be instructor.

The clinic will be open without charge to all employed white automobile mechanics. A certificate will be issued at the completion of the course. Information about the classes may be obtained by calling ALpine 0591, Extension 30.

Mexico Teacher Inspects Fulton School System

Sergio Diaz Ortega, 25, a third grade teacher in Mexico City, inspected Fulton County public schools as a part of his tour of America, and came up with this observation:

"It seems as if you don't have any shy children in America!"

The dark-eyed, dark-haired young schoolmaster is touring American public schools on a scholarship provided by his government. He said he liked the Mexican way of having schools financed by the federal government but was impressed by many advantages enjoyed by American youngsters.

"Your libraries are very splendid," he said, "and so available to the pupils! We have not so many books. And knives and forks... American children do not remember when they begin using them, do they?"

While he was in Atlanta the Mexican teacher met J. W. Harris, an East Point student who is going to Mexico to study under an exchange student plan.

Venezuela's Orinoco River is so forceful where it flows through the so-called Angostura constriction at Ciudad Bolivar, the channel has been scoured out over the centuries to a depth of 282 feet below sea level.

COTTON MAID—Miss Patricia Ann Mullarkey, Dallas, Texas, 1952 Maid of Cotton, will visit Atlanta Wednesday through Friday on her goodwill tour.
